The background of the top half of the cover is an abstract painting. It features a dark, diagonal band of deep purple and blue, which appears to be a shadow or a path. To the right of this band, there are bright, glowing patches of yellow and light blue, suggesting light or energy. The overall texture is rough and layered, with visible brushstrokes and a sense of depth.

Practical Information to Ensure Student Success

The bottom half of the cover features a continuation of the abstract painting from the top. It shows similar textures and colors, including dark purples, blues, and bright yellows, creating a cohesive visual theme.

Exciting Classrooms Frank Thoms, 2015-12-08 Frank Thoms writes with passion to invite principals and teachers to make changes that will allow all students to succeed. In this book he urges them to reconsider traditional practices in light of today's media-driven culture and digitally wired students. Exciting Classrooms is sensitive to the challenges schools face and is relentless in offering strategies to meet these challenges. Schools must do better. Rather than focus on improving test scores, this book advocates that teachers teach to a child's whole symphony, not only to one note. If students only learn to succeed on bubble tests, they will not have opportunities to discover their true potential. Thoms sees the teaching process as a joint venture between teacher and student where the teacher brings learning to the student and at the same time brings the student to the learning. This process demands at least as much listening as talking, a new habit that teachers and principals need to learn. JSL Vol 26-N1 JOURNAL OF SCHOOL LEADERSHIP, 2016-03-17 JSL invites the submission of manuscripts that contribute to the exchange of ideas and scholarship about schools and leadership. All theoretical and methodological approaches are welcome. We do not advocate or practice a bias toward any mode of inquiry, e.g., qualitative vs. quantitative, empirical vs. conceptual, discipline-based vs. interdisciplinary, and instead operate from the assumption that all careful and methodologically sound research has the potential to contribute to our understanding of school leadership. We strongly encourage authors to consider both the local and global implications of their work. The journal's goal is to clearly communicate with a diverse audience, including both school-based and university-based educators. The journal embraces a broad conception of school leadership and welcomes manuscripts that reflect the diversity of ways in which this term is understood. The journal is interested not only in manuscripts that focus on administrative leadership in schools and school districts but also in manuscripts that inquire about teacher, student, parent, and community leadership. Listening Is Learning Frank Thoms, 2018-12-21

Listening Is Learning Frank Thoms, 2018-12-21 Listening is Learning. Conversations Between 20th and 21st Century Teachers is a unique approach for meeting the challenges of today's teachers. In sixteen chapters of conversations between veterans and young teachers, readers will discover engaged teaching from the previous century that captures the attention of students. The classroom is the perhaps the last vestige of hope where children will discover the joy of being together without intermediary devices. Conversations invite reflection. Listening to respectful discussions between young and older teachers allows readers to slow down and take stock of their own positions and beliefs. Young teachers will come away with not only rich ideas but also a sense of encouragement to meet the challenges of digitally driven students. Face-to-face classrooms are the best hope for students to discover their best selves without distractions so prevalent in social media. If teachers choose to show students from the first day that they care about them and are willing to listen to their lives, they will build trusted relationships essential for students and for teachers. The Educational Times and Education Outlook, 1923
