Post-Apocalyptic Patriarchy Carlen Lavigne, 2018-10-12 Twenty first century American television series such as Revolution Falling Skies The Last Ship and The Walking Dead have depicted a variety of doomsday scenarios nuclear cataclysm rogue artificial intelligence pandemic alien invasion or zombie uprising These scenarios speak to longstanding societal anxieties and contemporary calamities like 9 11 or the avian flu epidemic Questions about post apocalyptic television abound whose voices are represented What tomorrows are they most afraid of What does this tell us about the world we live in today The author analyzes these speculative futures in terms of gender race and sexuality revealing the fears and ambitions of a patriarchy in flux as exemplified by the return to a mythical American frontier where the white male hero fights for survival protects his family and crafts a new world order based on the old

Small Screen, Big Feels Melissa Ames, 2020-12-02 While television has always played a role in recording and curating history shaping cultural memory and influencing public sentiment the changing nature of the medium in the post network era finds viewers experiencing and participating in this process in new ways They skim through commercials live tweet press conferences and award shows and tune into reality shows to escape reality This new era defined by the heightened anxiety and fear ushered in by 9 11 has been documented by our media consumption production and reaction In Small Screen Big Feels Melissa Ames asserts that TV has been instrumental in cultivating a shared memory of emotionally charged events unfolding in the United States since September 11 2001 She analyzes specific shows and genres to illustrate the ways in which cultural fears are embedded into our entertainment in series such as The Walking Dead and Lost or critiqued through programs like The Daily Show In the final section of the book Ames provides three audience studies that showcase how viewers consume and circulate emotions in the post network era analyses of live tweets from Shonda Rhimes's drama How to Get Away with Murder 2010 2020 ABC's reality franchises The Bachelor 2002 present and The Bachelorette 2003 present and political coverage of the 2016 Presidential Debates Though film has been closely studied through the lens of affect theory little research has been done to apply the same methods to television Engaging an impressively wide range of texts genres media and formats Ames offers a trenchant analysis of how televisual programming in the United States

responded to and reinforced a cultural climate grounded in fear and anxiety

The cultural politics of contemporary Hollywood film Chris Beasley, Heather Brook, 2019-01-21 Adopting and developing a cultural politics approach this comprehensive study explores how Hollywood movies generate and reflect political myths about social and personal life that profoundly influence how we understand power relations Instead of looking at genre it employs three broad categories of film Security films present ideas concerning public order and disorder citizen state relations and the politics of fear Relationalities films highlight personal and intimate politics bringing norms about identities gender and sexuality into focus In socially critical films particular issues and ideas are endowed with more overtly political significance The book considers these categories as global political technologies implicated in hegemonic and soft power relations whose reach is both deep and broad
