Evaluation Methodologies for Aid in Conflict Ole Winckler Andersen, Beate Bull, Megan Kennedy-Chouane, 2013-12-13

Knowledge and rigorous evidence around the role of external development partners in situations of conflict and fragility is still lacking. There is little accountability for the billions in aid being spent in places like Afghanistan, Iraq and the Democratic Republic of Congo. This book analyses evaluation theory and practice in order to help fill this knowledge gap and advocates a realistic and rigorous approach to evaluating international engagement. Through a series of case studies, this book highlights both the promise and potential pitfalls of taking a more evaluative approach to understanding aid in conflict regions. These illustrate the methodological and analytical approach taken by researchers working to understand the results and effectiveness of conflict prevention and peacebuilding support. While well grounded in current theoretical and methodological debates, the book provides valuable practical information by examining how and why different choices were made in the context of each evaluation. The book shows what future steps may be envisaged to further strengthen evaluations of support for conflict prevention and peacebuilding. The analysis draws on a wealth of perspectives and voices to provide researchers and students in development studies and conflict and peace studies as well as development evaluators with a deep and broad understanding of evaluation methods and approaches.

Global Food Security and Development Aid Ivica

Petrikova, 2016-11-03 At the global level, international actors have repeatedly expressed their desire to end hunger and food insecurity. However, food insecurity has persisted. More analysis is hence needed on the link between continuously high levels of global food insecurity and the ever increasing flow of development aid. Global Food Security and Development Aid investigates the impact that development aid has had on food security in developing countries and includes international case studies on Peru, Ethiopia, India and Vietnam. It examines the effect of development aid in general and the impact of aid divided into different categories based on donor mechanism and sector to which it is provided. In each examined relationship between aid and food security, particular attention is paid to the potentially intervening role played by the quality of national and/or local governance. The book makes policy recommendations, most importantly that donors should take greater care in considering which types of aid are suitable to which specific countries, localities and development goals and account for expected developments in the complex relationship between aid, food security and governance. This book will be of considerable interest to students, researchers and policy makers in the areas of development aid and food security.

Digital Technologies for Democratic Governance in Latin America Anita Breuer, Yanina Welp, 2014-01-10 This book is the first to comprehensively analyse the political and societal impacts of new Information and Communication Technologies (ICT) in a region of the Global South. It evaluates under what conditions some Latin American governments and people have succeeded in taking up the opportunities related to the spread of ICTs while others are confronted with the pessimist scenario of increased digitally induced social and democratic cleavages. Specifically, the book examines if and how far the spread and use of new ICT affected central aims of democratic governance such as reducing socio economic and gender inequality strengthening citizen participation in political decision making increasing the transparency of legislative processes improving administrative processes providing free access to government data and information and expanding independent spaces of citizen communication The country case and cross country explore a range of bottom up driven initiatives to reinforce democracy in the region The book offers researchers and students an interdisciplinary approach to these issues by linking it to established theories of media and politics political communication political participation and governance Giving voice to researchers native to the region and with direct experience of the region it uniquely brings together contributions from political scientists researchers in communication studies and area studies specialists who have a solid record in political activism and international development co operation

Governance Reform in Africa Jerome Bachelard, 2013-07-24 Poor governance is increasingly recognized as the greatest impediment to economic development in Sub Saharan Africa Currently some impressive governance reforms are underway in many countries This includes cases such as Nigeria formerly the most corrupt country in the world according to Transparency International Yet other countries such as Chad are still in reform deadlock To account for these differences this book examines governance reform in Sub Saharan Africa based on an analysis of international and domestic pressures and counter pressures It develops a four phase model explaining why governance reforms advance in some instances whilst in others governance reforms stagnate or even relapse No study has sought to systematically examine the political forces both international and domestic behind the successful conduct of governance reform in Sub Saharan Africa Yet coordination collaboration and mutual support between international and domestic actors is critical to push individual governments onto the path of reform This book shows that while international and domestic pro reform pressures are important an analysis of anti reform pressures is also necessary to explain incomplete or failed reform The main theoretical arguments are structured around four hypotheses The hypotheses are theoretically generated and tested over four case studies Madagascar Kenya Nigeria and Chad On this basis the good governance socialization process is inductively developed in the concluding chapter This model illustrates how governance practices can evolve positively and negatively in all countries of Sub Saharan Africa based on the nature and relative strength of international and domestic pressures and counter pressures

Socio-Economic Insecurity in Emerging Economies Khayaat Fakier, Ellen Ehmke, 2014-06-05 Taking a unique comparative approach to the respective development paths of India Brazil and South Africa IBSA this book shows that people and governments in all three countries are faced with similar challenges of heightened insecurity caused by liberalization and structural adjustment The ways in which governments as well as individuals and worker organisations in IBSA have responded to these challenges are at the core of this book The book explores the nature of insecurity in the Global South the nature of the responses to this insecurity on public and small scale collective as well as individual level the potential of these responses to be more than neo liberal mechanisms to govern and contain the poor and lessons to be learnt from these three countries The first section covers livelihood strategies in urban and rural areas as individual and small scale collective response to the condition of insecurity Insecurity in the countries of the South is characterised by a high degree of uncertainty of the availability of income opportunities The second section looks at state responses to insecurity and contributions on social protection measures taken by the respective IBSA governments The third section discusses whether alternative development paths can be identified The aim is to move beyond denunciatory analysis Livelihood strategies as well as public policies in some of the cases allow for the building of new spaces for agency and contestation of a neo liberal mainstream which provide emerging and experimental examples The book develops new thinking on Northern welfare states and their declining trade unions It argues that these concepts knowledge and policy innovations are now travelling in three directions from North to South from South to North and between Southern countries This book provides unique insights for researchers and postgraduate students in development studies social policy and industrial sociology
