Evaluation of Juveniles' Competence to Stand Trial Ivan Kruh, Thomas Grisso, 2008-12-25 Forensic mental health assessment FMHA has grown into a specialization informed by research and professional guidelines This series presents up to date information on the most important and frequently conducted forms of FMHA The 19 topical volumes address best approaches to practice for particular types of evaluation in the criminal civil and juvenile family areas Each volume contains a thorough discussion of the relevant legal and psychological concepts followed by a step by step description of the assessment process from preparing for the evaluation to writing the report and testifying in court Volumes include the following helpful features Boxes that zero in on important information for use in evaluations Tips for best practice and cautions against common pitfalls Highlighting of relevant case law and statutes Separate list of assessment tools for easy reference Helpful glossary of key terms for the particular topic In making recommendations for best practice authors consider empirical support legal relevance and consistency with ethical and professional standards These volumes offer invaluable guidance for anyone involved in conducting or using forensic evaluations Competency to Stand Trial Evaluations Thomas Grisso, 1988 Of all the different forms of forensic mental health evaluations the most frequently requested are competency to stand trial evaluations Dr Grisso a preeminent forensic researcher and teacher has put together a field tested manual of immense value It is basic and straightforward yet sufficiently complete to meet current legal requirements professional standards and the realistic demands of a forensic practice Included are reviews of competency assessment instruments discussions of ethical issues in competency evaluations of criminal defendants case examples and appendices detailing major legal cases specialized evaluation tools and reference citations Assessing Negative Response Bias in Competency to Stand Trial Evaluations Steven J. Rubenzer, 2018 This work provides readers with a comprehensive guide to assessing whether a defendant has feigned mental impairment during a competency to stand trial evaluation or simply did not put forth his/her best effort. This text reviews the literature on assessing feigning and negative response bias with particular focus on issues, tests, and data relevant to CST evaluations and examines proposed criteria and statistical methods of determining and classifying assessment results.

Evaluating Competencies Thomas Grisso, 2006-01-27. As in its first edition, this book offers a conceptual model for understanding the nature of legal competencies. The model is interpreted to assist mental health professionals in designing and performing assessments for legal competencies defined in criminal and civil law and to guide research that will improve the practice of evaluations for legal competencies. A special feature is the book's evaluative review of specialized forensic assessment instruments for each of several legal competencies. Three-fourths of the 37 instruments reviewed in the second edition are new and thus were not reviewed in the first edition. Application of the assessment model and reviews of instruments are provided for six areas of legal competence: Competence to Stand Trial, Waiver of Rights to Silence and Legal Counsel, Not Guilty by Reason of Insanity, Parenting Capacity, Determination of Child Custody, Guardianship and Conservatorship, and Competence to Consent to Treatment.

Competence to Stand Trial Candace Lynn Shields, 2004. This dissertation is a retrospective investigation of differences in specific cognitive-related abilities between defendants classified as competent to stand trial and those not competent to stand trial. The study is inspired by the documented lack of professional consensus regarding minimal standards of practice related to the assessment of competence to stand trial. Evaluators themselves are puzzled by the paucity of evidence on which to substantiate rationales for selection of evaluative approaches. With knowledge that forensic examiners often routinely administer entire assessment protocols referring to the Wechsler scales to evaluate the intellectual functioning of defendants as a segment of a more extensive clinical evaluation for competence to stand trial, a question exists in the evaluation of a defendant's ability to proceed to trial as to the practical value of administering each and every subtest contained in the protocol.

Evaluation of Competency to Stand Trial Mary H. Brown, 1995. Discusses what type of mental health professionals other states use to evaluate a defendant's mental competence to stand trial regarding HB 6882.

People v. Daoud, 462 MICH 621 (2000), 2000 113994. Mental Competency Flashcards and Legal Photos Craig West, 2023-02-16. The flashcards and legal photos are visual aids designed to reinforce key concepts covered in the MCAT program's lesson plans for both adults and juveniles. The flashcards are used to convey general legal concepts, court etiquette, and legal defenses, while the legal photos are used to help clients understand the charges brought against them and the evidentiary exploration process. Each flashcard and legal photo have a unique alphanumeric identifier consisting of two letters and a two-digit number which helps trainers to quickly locate and organize the necessary cards. The first letter of the identifier indicates the category of the card, while the second letter indicates whether it is a flashcard or a legal photo. The distinctive colored borders on both the flashcards and legal photos help with organizing and identifying the cards, making it very easy and efficient to find and file them The categories are as follows A General Legal Knowledge Green Border B Crimes Delinquencies Blue Border C Law Enforcement Silver Border D Court Personnel Red Border E Court Processes Gray Border F Working with an Attorney Brown Border G Department of Corrections Yellow Border H Tolerate Stress Behavior Conduct Orange Border In most lesson plans specific recommendations are provided for which flashcards and legal photos to use while in other cases trainers are encouraged to use their own judgment to select the most appropriate images based on their experience and the client s needs Overall the flashcards and legal photos are designed to provide a visual aid for clients to better understand the concepts covered in the MCAT program thereby enhancing their competency to stand trial
