Fitter And Turner Study Manuals:

History of Manual and Industrial Education Up to 1870 Charles Alpheus Bennett, 1926 Manual of Industrial Project Analysis in Developing Countries: Methodology and case studies Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development. Development Centre, 1968 Identity, Pedagogy and Technology-enhanced Learning Selena Chan, 2020-02-24 This book gathers work from over a decade of study and seeks to better understand and support how learners become tradespeople. The research programme applies recent concepts from neuroscience, educational psychology and technology-enhanced learning to explain and help overcome the challenges of learning in trades learning contexts. Due to the complex and multifarious nature of the work characterising trade occupations, learning how to become a tradesperson requires a significant commitment in terms of time along with physical and cognitive effort. All modalities: visual, aural, haptic etc. and literacies: text, numerical, spatial etc. are required when undertaking trade work. Manual dexterity and strength coupled with the technical and tacit knowledge required for complex problem solving, not to mention suitable dispositional approaches, must all be learnt and focused on becoming a tradesperson. However, there is a substantial gap in the literature on how people learn a trade and how to teach a trade. In this book, contemporary teaching and learning approaches and strategies as derived through practice-based participatory research are used to highlight and discuss pragmatic solutions to facilitate the learning and teaching of trade skills, knowledge and dispositions. The approaches and strategies discussed include the implementation of technology-enhanced learning, project-based inquiry, problem-based learning and recommendations to ensure learners are prepared for the future of work.

COPD - Pathology, Diagnosis, Treatment, and Future Directions Steven Jones, 2024-06-05 Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease is a currently incurable and irreversible lung condition with worldwide mortality rates similar to stroke, diabetes and Alzheimer's disease. Treatments are limited to the removal of the underlying causes, e.g. exposure to smoke, easing some of the symptoms and slowing the rate at which the disease worsens. As a consequence of smoking, it is less well known than lung cancer, even though it has an equal or higher mortality rate. It is a combination of diseases that affects bronchioles and alveoli to different extents from patient to patient. An accurate diagnosis of each patient's physiology is potentially useful in tailoring treatment to the underlying physiology. This book provides an overview of the underlying pathology of the disease. It then discusses some of the clinical tools available to obtain pathology-specific diagnosis for a given patient. A section then discusses the consequences of the disease. While some of these consequences are readily expected from a cursory understanding of the disease: anemia and shortness of breath, others are less obvious: muscle atrophy, impaired balance and cardiac problems. In the final sections, disease treatment is addressed. The book is intended to convey two important points. The first is that hope exists for more effective treatments in the future, while the second is that these treatments will require strong collaborations among researchers in a variety of disciplines.
