Disarticulation and Preservation of Fossil Echinoderms: Recognition of Ecological-Time Information in the Echinoderm Fossil Record William I. Ausich, 2021-02-11 The history of life on earth is largely reconstructed from time averaged accumulations of fossils A glimpse at ecologic time attributes and processes is relatively rare However the time sensitive and predictability of echinoderm disarticulation makes them model organisms to determine post mortem transportation and allows recognition of ecological time data within paleocommunity accumulations Unlike many other fossil groups this has allowed research on many aspects of echinoderms and their paleocommunities such as the distribution of soft tissues assessment of the amount of fossil transportation prior to burial determination of intraspecific variation paleocommunity composition estimation of relative abundance of taxa in paleocommunities determination of attributes of niche differentiation etc Crinoids and echinoids have received the most amount of taphonomic research and the patterns present in these two groups can be used to develop a more thorough understanding of all echinoderm clades Report on the Echinoderms Collected by the Danmark-expedition at North-east Greenland Theodor Mortensen, 1910
