PRINCIPLES OF HEALTHY EATING

1. Eat slowly, chewing the food thoroughly so it will be well mixed with saliva. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should not be swallowed down. The more food there is taken into the stomach with the meal, the more difficult it is for the food to digest. Let the food remain first for absorption.

2. Eat sparingly. "The stomach will not be overburdened." If the stomach is overloaded with too much food, even of the best kind, the food begins to ferment before it has been properly digested. There is a rush of blood to the head, and thus a discomfort upon the brain, making it almost impossible to keep the eyes open. Overeating has a similar effect upon the system than overworking.

"Grains, fruits, nuts, and vegetables, constitute the diet chosen for us by our Creator. These foods, prepared in as simple and natural a manner as possible, are the most healthful and nourishing. They impart a strength, a power of endurance, and a vigor of intellect, that are not afforded by a more complex and stimulating diet. In grains, fruits, vegetables, and nuts are to be found all the food elements that we need." L. A. White, Diet & Health, pg. 294

3. Eat at regular times, two or three meals a day and nothing between. Allow 3-4 hours to elapse between meals. Do not eat before going to bed. When you retire, the stomach should have to work all alone, so it may rest with you. Regularity in eating is of vital importance. Irregularity affects the healthful tone of the digestive organs, to the detriment of health and cheerfulness.

4. Eat more raw fruits and vegetables in their natural state. Make your salad the largest part of the meal. The practice of eating the raw foods first, before the main course, will stimulate and ward digestion and help avoid overeating of cooked foods. The healthy human diet consists mostly of raw fruits and vegetables, plus a variety of grains.
