For Indigenous Eyes Only Angela Cavender Wilson, 2005 Recognizing an urgent need for Indigenous liberation strategies Indigenous intellectuals met to create a book with hands on suggestions and activities to enable Indigenous communities to decolonize themselves The authors begin with the belief that Indigenous Peoples have the power strength and intelligence to develop culturally specific decolonization strategies for their own communities and thereby systematically pursue their own liberation These scholars and writers demystify the language of colonization and decolonization to help Indigenous communities identify useful concepts terms and intellectual frameworks in their struggles toward liberation and self determination This handbook covers a wide range of topics including Indigenous governance education language oral tradition repatriation images and stereotypes and truth telling It aims to facilitate critical thinking while offering recommendations for fostering community discussions and plans for meaningful community action Remediating

Cartographies of Erasure Bernard C. Perley, 2025-08 Remediating Cartographies of Erasure brings together leading sociocultural and linguistic anthropologists to explore the moral imperatives of anthropology as a discipline to contribute to the self determination and equality of Indigenous peoples around the globe This engaged collaboration highlights the partnerships between Indigenous communities and anthropology as a mutually respectful and emancipatory practice of Indigenous and anthropological epistemologies Indigenous scholars from New Zealand the United States and Canada and non Indigenous scholars from Australia the United States and Canada each provide concrete examples of how researchers actualize the moral imperative to work with Indigenous peoples in ways that foster their human rights and self determination The contributors discuss anthropological work done in Canada the United States Brazil Peru Bolivia Honduras Australia Sardinia and New Zealand In laying out a world anthropology this volume demonstrates the rectification practices of Indigenous peoples and continues anthropology's long standing advocacy for social justice and human rights around the globe

Contemplative Practices and Acts of Resistance in Higher Education Michelle C. Chatman, LeeRay Costa, David W. Robinson-Morris, 2024-11-04 The contributors to this volume educators student affairs practitioners and higher education staff heartfully share a broad range of contemplative practices and acts of resistance used within the confines of shattered systems and institutions for themselves their colleagues and their students The narratives in this volume broadly imagine inspire recount and guide readers toward the fullness of their humanity and wholeness within institutions of higher education At the same time these accounts navigate the operational realities of daunting demands on the mind body and spirit the growing turbulence of working on higher education campuses across the country and a sense of urgency toward collective life affirmation within modern higher education institutions Each chapter features critical framing of a concept personal stories of this concept in action and descriptions of contemplative practices for readers to use in their own contexts Together chapter authors demonstrate what it means to be a contemplative practitioner attentive to issues of power racism and marginalization in higher education today With a deep breath and mindful awareness this book invites faculty and staff at colleges and universities on a transformational journey with the contributors toward fullness in pursuit of becoming whole and inspiring change

Living in Indigenous Sovereignty Elizabeth Carlson-Manathara, 2021-04-15T00:00:00Z In the last decade the relationship between settler Canadians and Indigenous Peoples has been highlighted by the Truth and Reconciliation Commission the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls the Idle No More movement the Wet suwet en struggle against pipeline development and other Indigenous led struggles for Indigenous sovereignty and decolonization Increasing numbers of Canadians are beginning to recognize how settler colonialism continues to shape relationships on these lands With this recognition comes the question many settler Canadians are now asking what can I do Living in Indigenous Sovereignty lifts up the wisdom of Indigenous scholars activists and knowledge keepers who speak pointedly to what they are asking of non Indigenous people It also shares the experiences of thirteen white settler Canadians who are deeply engaged in solidarity work with Indigenous Peoples Together these stories offer inspiration and guidance for settler Canadians who wish to live honourably in relationship with Indigenous Peoples laws and lands If Canadians truly want to achieve this goal Carlson and Rowe argue they will pursue a reorientation of their lives toward living in Indigenous sovereignty living in an awareness that these are Indigenous lands containing relationships laws protocols stories obligations and opportunities that have been understood and practised by Indigenous peoples since time immemorial Collectively these stories will help settler Canadians understand what transformations we must undertake if we are to fundamentally shift our current relations and find a new way forward together Visit for more details <https://www.storiesofdecolonization.org> Watch the book launch video here

Intersectionality of Race, Ethnicity, Class, and Gender in Teaching and Teacher Education Norvella P. Carter, Michael Vavrus, 2018-04-16 In Intersectionality of Race Ethnicity Class and Gender in Teaching and Teacher Education the editors bring together scholarship that employs an intersectionality approach to conditions that affect public school children teachers and teacher educators Chapter authors use intersectionality to examine group identities not only for their differences and experiences of oppression but also for differences within groups that contribute to conflicts among groups This collection moves beyond single dimension conceptions that undermines legal thinking disciplinary knowledge and social justice Intersectionality in this collection helps complicate static notions of race ethnicity class and gender in education Hence this book stands as an addition to research on educational equity in relation to institutional systems of power and privilege

Multicultural and Ethnic Children's

Literature in the United States Donna L. Gilton, 2020-02-18 This edition of Multicultural and Ethnic Children's Literature in the United States addresses both quantitative and more qualitative changes in this field over the last decade. Quantitative changes include more authors, books, and publishers; book review sources, booklists, and awards organizations; institutions and websites; and criticism and other scholarship. Qualitative changes include more support for new and emerging writers and illustrators; promotion of multicultural literature both in the U.S. and around the world; as well as developments in global literature. Developments in the literatures described throughout this book as well as in research supporting this literature. The impact of technology. Characteristics and activities of four adult audiences that use and promote multicultural children's literature and changes in leaders and their organizations. This is still a single reference source for busy and involved librarians, teachers, parents, scholars, publishers, distributors, and community leaders. Most books on multicultural children's literature are written especially for teachers, librarians, and scholars. They may be introductions to the literature, selection tools, teaching guides, or very theoretical books on choosing, evaluating, and using these materials. Multicultural and Ethnic Children's Literature in the United States focuses much more on the history of the development of this literature from the nineteenth century to the present day. This book provides much more of a cultural and political context for the early development of this literature. It emphasizes the self-determining viewpoints and activities of diverse people as they produce materials for the young. Multicultural and Ethnic Children's Literature describes organizations, events, activities, and other contributions of diverse writers, illustrators, publishers, researchers, scholars, librarians, educators, and parents. It also describes trends in the research on the literature. It elaborates more on ways in which diversity is still an issue in publishing companies and an extended list of related industries. It describes related literature from outside of the U.S. and makes connections to traditional global literature. Last, Multicultural and Ethnic Children's Literature shows the impact of multiculturalism on education, libraries, and the mainstream culture in general. While the other books on multiculturalism focus on how to find, evaluate, and use multicultural materials especially in schools and libraries, this book is concerned over whether and how books are produced in the first place and how this material impacts the broader society. In many ways it supplements other books on multicultural children's literature.

Food Shortage Crisis Dawn M. Drake, 2024-06-13 Discover the history, causes, impacts, and potential future of global food shortages, a problem for all of humanity, not just the developing world. This important reference work takes an in-depth look at the geographic nature of the problem of global food shortages, helping readers to understand that while this is not a problem that exists everywhere, it is a problem that touches everyone. The book begins with an introduction to the basics of global food shortages, moves through the history of the issue, and then explains the current state of affairs. From there, it examines root causes, proposes solutions, and takes a speculative look into the future. This organization moves readers through the problem in a systematic and easy-to-follow manner while also allowing them to explore each aspect of the issue individually. A curated selection of further readings at the end of each chapter points readers toward resources for additional research and discovery The book concludes with a selection of perspective essays written by expert contributors Each explores a different facet of the topic from the potential of GMO crops to the impact of food waste Food Shortage Crisis illustrates that the problems of food scarcity and insecurity are neither new nor confined to the developing world They are the result of a complex interplay of issues at every stage of the process of feeding humanity from food production to sale and distribution to consumption Age old factors such as poverty and inequality are compounded by new realities such as climate change Global food shortages affect more than human health they have the potential to cause economic devastation trigger civil unrest and international conflicts and change how we as humans interact with the planet and each other Yoder-Wise's Leading and Managing in Canadian Nursing - E-Book Nancy Walton,Janice

Remembering Our Ancestors Paula Noël Hibbard,2001 The purpose of this dissertation is to provide for my community and for those brought up in a western context an account of a catalytic process for personal cultural and global transformation My intentions are 1 to define and express decolonization through narrative 2 to document my personal experience of decolonization and the Recovery of Indigenous Mind process and 3 to narrate how Recovery of Indigenous Mind is decolonization and how this reveals the connection to Ancestors a process important and necessary for healing and change Section One writes the Research Design as the content of the dissertation and why it is a process that reveals personal and cultural power at the same time deepening and grounding decolonization This section reveals relationship with Ancestors and answers the research question Why is it important for us to know our Ancestors Section Two is written as four narrative vignettes that share experience through words that are personal and meaningful to myself as the storyteller The vignettes assist in defining the Recovery of Indigenous Mind process in the form of narrative so that those brought up in a western context can experience decolonization personally Section Three is an entrance to the indigenous mind through decolonization This section is a key to opening and understanding how the western mind operates through exploring the meaning of decolonization through narrative This section is written as a guide for the entrance to the Recovery of Indigenous Mind process and to the indigenous worldview of a woman with Celtic ancestry This dissertation is a foundation for my life and my own Recovery of Indigenous Mind process of healing through decolonization it is also for those who hear the calling of their ancestors to initiate a healing process that is a remembering and a healing of who we are and from where we come a process vital for the survival of the Earth and our future generations Decolonizing Methodologies Linda Tuhiwai Smith,2021 To the colonized the term research is conflated with European colonialism the ways in which academic research has been implicated in the throes of imperialism remains a painful memory This essential volume explores intersections of imperialism and research specifically the ways in which imperialism is embedded in disciplines of knowledge and tradition as regimes of truth Concepts such as discovery and claiming are discussed and an argument presented that the decolonization of research methods will help to reclaim control over indigenous ways of knowing and being Now in its eagerly awaited third edition this bestselling book includes a co written introduction features contributions from indigenous scholars on the book s continued relevance to current research It also features a chapter with twenty five indigenous projects and a collection of poetry Native Minds Rising Gregory Cajete, 2020 The principles of empowerment through a new expression of Indigenous education are facilitated by both Indigenous and non Indigenous people recognizing the hidden oppression and uneven levels of power and privilege which are the legacy of colonialism The stories of the oppressive history of America must be heard The historic and contemporary forms of trauma grief and loss of Indigenous people must be acknowledged There must be recognition that the effects of marginalization and racism are ongoing To address these effects a contemporary Indigenous education theory must validate the inherent strength of Indian people in their resiliency and instinct for survival It must allow for trust in Indigenous Peoples ability to develop a new expression of education over time There must be a deep and long term commitment to create and enact a transformative vision of the role a contemporary expression of Indigenous education can play Such a vision must be built upon mutual respect and shared power for all participants In many ways this movement toward defining a new vision for Indigenous education has already begun What is most important in these beginning stages is listening to the voices of Indian people validating their positions and understanding their need for empowerment as they strive to create a new and transformative vision for Indigenous education in the 21st century Native Minds Rising presents the research and stories of a new group of Indigenous scholars and practitioners who are researching or participating in the development of Indigenous based research while working in Indigenous communities Decolonizing Social Work Dr Tiani Hetherington, Professor John Coates, Professor Mel Gray, Professor Michael Yellow Bird, 2013-07-28 Riding on the success of Indigenous Social Work Around the World this book provides case studies to further scholarship on decolonization a major analytical and activist paradigm among many of the world s Indigenous Peoples including educators tribal leaders activists scholars politicians and citizens at the grassroots level Decolonization seeks to weaken the effects of colonialism and create opportunities to promote traditional practices in contemporary settings Establishing language and cultural programs honouring land claims teaching Indigenous history science and ways of knowing self esteem programs celebrating ceremonies restoring traditional parenting approaches tribal rites of passage traditional foods and helping and healing using tribal approaches are central to decolonization These insights are brought to the arena of international social work still dominated by western based approaches Decolonization draws attention to the effects of globalization and the universalization of education methods of practice and international development that fail to embrace and recognize local knowledges and methods In this volume Indigenous and non Indigenous social work scholars examine local cultures beliefs values and practices as central to decolonization Supported by a growing interest in spirituality and ecological awareness in international social work they interrogate trends issues and debates in Indigenous social work theory practice methods and education models including a section on Indigenous research approaches The diversity of perspectives decolonizing methodologies and the shared struggle to provide effective professional social work interventions is reflected in the international nature of the subject matter and in the mix of contributors who write from their contexts in different countries and cultures including Australia Canada Cuba Japan Jordan Mexico New Zealand South Africa and the USA

Decolonizing Social Work Mel Gray, John Coates, Michael Yellow Bird, Tiani Hetherington, 2016-05-13 Riding on the success of Indigenous Social Work Around the World this book provides case studies to further scholarship on decolonization a major analytical and activist paradigm among many of the world's Indigenous Peoples including educators tribal leaders activists scholars politicians and citizens at the grassroots level Decolonization seeks to weaken the effects of colonialism and create opportunities to promote traditional practices in contemporary settings Establishing language and cultural programs honouring land claims teaching Indigenous history science and ways of knowing self esteem programs celebrating ceremonies restoring traditional parenting approaches tribal rites of passage traditional foods and helping and healing using tribal approaches are central to decolonization These insights are brought to the arena of international social work still dominated by western based approaches Decolonization draws attention to the effects of globalization and the universalization of education methods of practice and international development that fail to embrace and recognize local knowledges and methods In this volume Indigenous and non Indigenous social work scholars examine local cultures beliefs values and practices as central to decolonization Supported by a growing interest in spirituality and ecological awareness in international social work they interrogate trends issues and debates in Indigenous social work theory practice methods and education models including a section on Indigenous research approaches The diversity of perspectives decolonizing methodologies and the shared struggle to provide effective professional social work interventions is reflected in the international nature of the subject matter and in the mix of contributors who write from their contexts in different countries and cultures including Australia Canada Cuba Japan Jordan Mexico New Zealand South Africa and the USA Being Again of One Mind Lina Sunseri, 2011 By giving a voice to Oneida women's thoughts on tradition and nation this book challenges feminist ideas about the masculine bias of Western theories of nation and about the dangers of nationalist movements that idealize women's so called traditional role Its unique blend of theory and narrative shows that the insights of mainstream feminism cannot be applied universally to all women or to societies with traditional forms of nation based on good relations between men and women Contrary to theorists who present the concept of nation as a recent Western phenomenon Lina Sunseri shows that the Six Nations had a long history of nation that preceded contact with Europeans and the transformation of gender roles that followed Colonization and Decolonization Gord Hill, 200? Charts the history of colonization particularly in North America Describes the historical and continued impacts of colonialism both on societal and individual levels Native Wisdom for White Minds Anne Wilson Schaef, 2013-08-14 You don't have to be white to have a white mind What is a white mind As Anne Wilson Schaef learned during her travels throughout the world among Native Peoples anyone raised in modern Western society or by Western culture can have a white mind White minds are trapped in a closed system of thinking that sees life in black and white either or terms they are hierarchical and mechanistic they see nature as a force to be tamed and people as objects to be controlled with no regard for the future This worldview is not shared by most Native Peoples and in this provocative book Anne Wilson Schaef shares the richness poured out to her by Native Americans Aborigines Africans Maoris and others In the words of Native Peoples themselves we come to understand Native ideas about our earth spirituality family work loneliness and change For in every area of our lives we have the capacity to transcend our white minds we simply need to listen with open hearts and open minds to other voices other perceptions other cultures Anne Wilson Schaef often heard Elders from a wide variety of Native Peoples say Our legends tell us that a time will come when our wisdom and way of living will be necessary to save the planet and that time is now Anyone ready to move from feeling separate to a profound sense of connectedness from the personal to the global will find the path in this mind expanding deeply spiritual book
