Food Politics What Everyone Needs To Know:

Food Politics Robert Paarlberg, 2010-04-07 The politics of food is changing fast In rich countries obesity is now a more serious problem than hunger Consumers once satisfied with cheap and convenient food now want food that is also safe nutritious fresh and grown by local farmers using fewer chemicals Heavily subsidized and underregulated commercial farmers are facing stronger push back from environmentalists and consumer activists and food companies are under the microscope Meanwhile agricultural success in Asia has spurred income growth and dietary enrichment but agricultural failure in Africa has left one third of all citizens undernourished and the international markets that link these diverse regions together are subject to sudden disruption Food Politics What Everyone Needs to Know carefully examines and explains the most important issues on today's global food landscape including international food prices famines chronic hunger the Malthusian race between food production and population growth international food aid green revolution farming obesity farm subsidies and trade agriculture and the environment agribusiness supermarkets food safety fast food slow food organic food local food and genetically engineered food Politics in each of these areas has become polarized over the past decade by conflicting claims and accusations from advocates on all sides Paarlberg's book maps this contested terrain challenging myths and critiquing more than a few of today's fashionable beliefs about farming and food For those ready to have their thinking about food politics informed and also challenged this is the book to read What Everyone Needs to Know is a registered trademark of Oxford University Press

Food Politics Robert L. Paarlberg, 2023 The third edition of Food Politics What Everyone Needs to Know has been thoroughly updated to reflect the latest developments and research on today's global food landscape including the realities of food markets farm production methods food manufacturing and dietary health challenges New material covers a range of global food issues and includes an expanded focus on food policy and politics in the United States Discussing the politics and policies that continue to shape our contemporary food system Robert Paarlberg challenges myths and critiques more than a few of today's fashionable beliefs about farming and food

Food Politics Robert L. Paarlberg, 2023 Food Politics is the struggle among groups in society to shape the actions of governments when taxing regulating or subsidizing actions within the food and farming sector In rich countries government policies have historically favored farmers by providing income subsidies often at the expense of consumers and taxpayers while in poor countries it is urban consumers that have usually been favored More recently food politics debates have centered on preferences among more affluent consumers for foods and food production systems that will seem socially equitable local and small scale rather than global and industrial and environmentally sustainable using fewer chemicals and burning less fossil fuel In the cultural space these new food movement demands have gained a strong following yet among many specialists and government leaders traditionalists have been slow to yield control Teaching Big History Richard B. Simon, 2014-12-23 Big History is a new field on a grand scale it tells the story of the universe over time through a diverse range of disciplines that spans cosmology physics chemistry astronomy geology evolutionary biology anthropology and archaeology thereby reconciling traditional human history with environmental geography and natural history Weaving the myriad threads of evidence based human knowledge into a master narrative that stretches from the beginning of the universe to the present the Big History framework helps students make sense of their studies in all disciplines by illuminating the structures that underlie the universe and the connections among them Teaching Big History is a powerful analytic and pedagogical resource and serves as a comprehensive guide for teaching Big History as well for sharing ideas about the subject and planning a curriculum around it Readers are also given helpful advice about the administrative and organizational challenges of instituting a general education program constructed around Big History The book includes teaching materials examples and detailed sample exercises This book is also an engaging first hand account of how a group of professors built an entire Big History general education curriculum for first year students demonstrating how this thoughtful integration of disciplines exemplifies liberal education at its best and illustrating how teaching and learning this incredible story can be transformative for professors and students alike

Food Jennifer Clapp, 2013-05-08 Food is one of the most basic resources that humans need for daily survival Forty percent of the world's population gains a livelihood from agriculture and we all consume food Yet control over this fundamental resource is concentrated in relatively few hands The 2008 food price crisis illustrated both the volatility and vulnerability built into the current global food system at the height of the crisis the number of hungry people on the planet climbed to over 1 billion At the same time there are serious ecological consequences that stem from an increasingly industrial model of agriculture that has spread worldwide This book aims to contribute to a fuller understanding of the forces that influence and shape the current global food system Author Jennifer Clapp explores how corporate control inequitable international agricultural trade rules and the financialization of farm commodities have each had a fundamental influence on the practices that dominate today's global food system By contrast farmers and consumers particularly in the developing world have had little voice to change the rules of the game But movements are emerging to challenge the dominant global system The extent to which these alternative movements can displace it however remains to be seen

Global Environmental Politics Hayley Stevenson, 2018 This introduction to global environmental politics examines why environmental challenges occur and how we can effectively respond to them

The Future of Meat Without Animals Brianne Donaldson, Christopher Carter, 2016-08-16 Plant based and cell cultured meat milk and egg producers aim to replace industrial food production with animal free fare that tastes better costs less and requires a fraction of the energy inputs These products are no longer relegated to niche markets for ethical vegetarians but are heavily funded by private investors betting on meat without animals as mass market environmentally feasible alternatives that can be scaled for a growing global population This volume examines conceptual and cultural opportunities entanglements and pitfalls in moving global meat egg and dairy consumption toward these animal free options Beyond surface tensions of meatless meat and animal free flesh deeper conflicts proliferate around naturalized accounts of human identity and meat consumption as well as the linkage of protein with colonial power and gender oppression What visions and technologies can disrupt modern agriculture What economic and marketing channels are required to scale these products What beings and ecosystems remain implicated in a livestock free food system A future of meat without animals invites adjustments on the plate but it also inspires renewed habits of mind as well as life affirming innovations capable of nourishing the contours of our future selves This book illuminates material and philosophical complexities that will shape the character of our future s of food

Food and Agriculture Robert Paarlberg, 2015 In the conversation about the food we eat and where it comes from this bundle consisting of Food Politics What Everyone Needs to Know and Agricultural and Food Controversies What Everyone Needs to Know tackles the questions that arise from conflicting opinions Reflecting on the latest global food landscape and the most controversial issues in agriculture these two books provide a wealth of research and information on farming and food
