Ramos,2003 Learning Consumer Behavior Johnny Ch LOK,2021-04-26 What is leisure consumer psychology Leisure activities how influence consumer psychology Consumer leisure time behavior is receiving increasing attention by marketers What factors may influence on consumer's leisure shopping behavior In fact shopping is regarded as a major leisure time activity Shopping is regarded as a major leisure time activity Shopping center shoppers are seeking ways to make shopping more on a leisure pursuit When the consumer feels shopping leisure interest it will influence he/she to make immediate shopping leisure interest It will influence he/she to make immediate purchase decision The question concerns How to cause consumers to feel shopping leisure interest Some researchers believe that when the consumer feels enjoyable use of time without respect to the purchase of goods or services This leisure time psychology may influence he/she to make shopping decision rapidly Shopping is an entertainment experience It is one drive to influence consumers feel enjoyable shopping activities in shopping malls for example internet tool can be one platform to let some people like to apply technology to choose any products to buy at home conveniently when they do not need to leave homes to spend time to visit any shopping centers Because they feel time is expensive to them if the person is a busy buyer e.g. lawyer doctor or accountant etc occupation he won't have much time to visit shopping centers to choose any kinds of products to buy Then online purchase time may be leisure time to their high technology computer players Otherwise the people like to visit shops visiting shop time may be their leisure time more than visiting online webstores time So one consumer dislikes or hates to leave homes to go to shopping online visiting webstores activity may be his/her leisure time because when he/she gathers any product data from internet his/her internet gathering products data behavior may excite his/her purchase desire rapidly in short time when he/she feels seeking webstores activity is leisure time So seeking webstore behavior can motivate he/she makes rapid purchase decision So online seeking webstores activity may be as a pleasure or leisure shopping time to any online consumer or online buyer because they may feel online seeking webstores may be experiencing fun amusement fantasy and sensory stimulation He/she will feel traditional visiting shop retail experience is not suitable to satisfy his/her shopping need He/she needs to change another non traditional online shopping behavior because online visiting webstores can satisfy his her lesiure time So visiting shopping centers won t be leisure acitivity spending the highest amount of time e g more than two hours on average to any one online players Hence lesiure consumption time may be one influential psychology element to influence the consumer to make purchase decision such as many online players may feel online visiting webstore activities time may be that leisure time or many visiting shoppers may feel visiting shopping center time may be their lesiure time Som external environment factors such as shopping center crowd and noise shopping environment or home quiet online using computer visiting webstore private environment may influence consumers how feel leisure times and leisure shopping behaviors How to let patients to feel leisure living in hospitalsPsychologists use to describe the people they want with patients or clients Because patients may be hospital s customers although doctors feel they are patient role Psychotherapists adopt the language of medicine put themselves in a patient position in which they need to disgnose the disorder affecting the patient in order to provide the right treatment The patient may be client when the patient feels how the doctor serve him or her hoe the medicine can help him her to be heatth in short time

Critical Shopping Experiences Adrienne Steffen,2012 There is a recent marketing trend to make shopping a positive experience for the consumer A pleasant store environment is created with lights music an attractive store layout and friendly service personnel so that shopping has become fun just like a visit to the movie theatre The pleasant store atmosphere created seeks to enhance the consumers experience and encourages purchases by uplifting consumer mood Although retailers today expend a lot of resources to create a pleasant store environment they know little about the overall effects on consumer affect and behaviour The presented research studies consumers affective reactions to naturally occurring shopping experiences in shopping centres with the overall aim to investigate consumers emotional and behavioural reactions A hierarchical emotion descriptor model is developed and tested for an integrated understanding of consumers reactions to shopping experiences The book concludes with the discussion of managerial implications
