A guide to the eggs and larvae of 100 common Western Mediterranean Sea bony fish species Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2018-11-16 This guide presents the egg and larval descriptions of 100 species of fishes belonging to 55 families which are most likely to be present in plankton samples collected in the continental shelf and oceanic waters of the Western Mediterranean Sea The guide is structured in two parts The first introductory part describes the different applications of ichthyoplankton studies in fisheries research the main sampling strategies methods and gears the early life history of fishes and how to identify them A brief historical account of ichthyoplankton identification studies in the Mediterranean Sea is also provided The second part of the guide contains the identification sheets of the species Each species sheet includes the following information illustration of the adult fish and information on its habitat and spawning season description of the main features useful towards identifying the egg yolk sac and larval stage of each fish species illustrations and when available photos of the different life stages Alien Fish

Species in the Eastern Mediterranean Sea Stefan Kalogirou,2011 Seasonal quantitative sampling in two common coastal habitats was used to investigate habitat use of different life stages Sandy areas were found to be highly important for the early life stages of L. scleratus In contrast Posidonia oceanica habitats were mainly preferred by larger 29 cm reproductive adults with a maximum recorded size of 64 cm Lagocephalus scleratus was found to be an invertebrate and fish feeder while size classification revealed a tendency for an ontogenetic diet shift with increased size to a molluscivore feeding The ontogenetic diet shift is most probably attributed to a shift in habitat use with increasing size During early life stages L. scleratus inhabited sandy bottoms where it fed on various invertebrates including the genus Nassarius and Dentaliidae The predominant molluscan species found in the diet of larger 20 cm L. scleratus individuals was Sepia officinalis while predation of Octopus vulgaris was less successful Sepia officinalis and O. vulgaris are of economic interest in the area and the impact of L. scleratus on local stocks of these species is discussed Societal impacts were also evident in the area due to increased public attention concerning the lethal effects of the toxic L. scleratus if consumed Seasonal variations in the condition of L. scleratus did not show any significance and the high conditional values together with information on high numbers caught during samplings signifies its ability to become an important member of the coastal fish community Combined ecological economical and social effects clearly classify L. scleratus a pest in the area Underwater guide Red Sea - Invertebrates Peter Schmid,Dietmar Paschke,1990-01 Mediterranean Sea Fishes Rio Sammut,2001
