Exceptional Creativity in Science and Technology Andrew Robinson, 2013-02-22 In the evolution of science and technology laws governing exceptional creativity and innovation have yet to be discovered In his influential study The Structure of Scientific Revolutions the historian Thomas Kuhn noted that the final stage in a scientific breakthrough such as Albert Einstein's theory of relativity the most crucial step was inscrutable The same is still true half a century later Yet there has been considerable progress in understanding many stages and facets of exceptional creativity and innovation In Exceptional Creativity in Science and Technology editor Andrew Robinson gathers diverse contributors to explore this progress This new collection arises from a symposium with the same title held at the Institute for Advanced Study IAS in Princeton Organized by the John Templeton Foundation the symposium had the late distinguished doctor and geneticist Baruch S Blumberg as its chair At the same time its IAS host was the well known physicist Freeman J Dyson both of whom have contributed chapters to the book In addition to scientists engineers and an inventor the book's fifteen contributors include an economist entrepreneurs historians and sociologists all working at leading institutions including Bell Laboratories Microsoft Research Oxford University Princeton University and Stanford University Each contributor brings a unique perspective to the relationships between exceptional scientific creativity and innovation by individuals and institutions The diverse list of disciplines covered the high profile contributors including two Nobel laureates and their fascinating insights into this overarching question how exactly do we make breakthroughs will make this collection of interest to anyone involved with the creative process in any context Still it will especially appeal to readers in scientific and technological fields
