Drawing For Architecture Writing Architecture:

Drawing for Architecture Leon Krier, 2009-07-10 Drawings doodles and ideograms argue with ferocity and wit for traditional urbanism and architecture Architect Leon Krier's doodles drawings and ideograms make arguments in images without the circumlocutions of prose Drawn with wit and grace these clever sketches do not try to please or flatter the architectural establishment Rather they make an impassioned argument against what Krier sees as the unquestioned doctrines and unacknowledged absurdities of contemporary architecture Thus he shows us a building bearing a suspicious resemblance to Norman Foster's famous London gherkin as an example of priapic hubris threatened by detumescence and priapic nemesis he charts Random Uniformity fake simplicity and Uniform Randomness fake complexity he draws bloated bulimic and disproportionately scrawny anorexic columns flanking a graceful classical one and he compares private virtue modernist architects' homes and offices to public vice modernist architects' creations Krier wants these witty images to be tools for re-founding traditional urbanism and architecture He argues for mixed use cities of architectural speech rather than architectural stutter and pointedly plots the man-vehicle-land-need ratio of suburban man versus that of a city dweller In an age of energy crisis he writes and his drawings show we build in the wrong places in the wrong patterns materials densities and heights and for the wrong number of dwellers a return to traditional architectures and building and settlement techniques can be the means of ecological reconstruction Each of Krier's provocative and entertaining images is worth more than a thousand words of theoretical abstraction

Single-Handedly Nalina Moses, 2019-05-07 Part of the generation of architects who were trained to draw both by hand and with digital tools Nalina Moses recently returned to hand drawing Finding it to be direct pleasurable and intuitive she wondered whether other architects felt the same way Single-Handedly is the result of this inquiry An inspiring collection of 220 hand drawings by more than forty emerging architects and well-known practitioners from around the world this book explores the reasons they draw by hand and gives testimony to the continued vitality of hand drawing in architecture The powerful yet intimate drawings carry larger propositions about materials space and construction and each one stands on its own as a work of art

Stories from Architecture Philippa Lewis, 2021-10-19 The imagined histories of twenty-five architectural drawings and models told through reminiscences stories conversations letters and monologues Even when an architectural drawing does not show any human figures we can imagine many different characters just off the page architects artists onlookers clients builders developers philanthropists working observing admiring arguing In Stories from Architecture Philippa Lewis captures some of these personalities through reminiscences anecdotes conversations letters and monologues that collectively offer the imagined histories of twenty-five architectural drawings Some of these untold stories are factual like Frank Lloyd Wright's correspondence with a Wisconsin librarian regarding her 5,000 dream home or letters written by the English architect John Nash to his irascible aristocratic client Others recount a fictional if credible scenario by placing these drawings and with them their characters into their immediate social context For instance the dilemmas facing a Regency couple who are considering a move to a suburban villa a request from the office of Richard Neutra for an assistant to measure Josef von Sternberg's Rolls Royce so that the director's beloved vehicle might fit into the garage being designed by his architect a teenager dreaming of a life away from parental supervision by gazing at a gadget filled bachelor pad in Playboy magazine even a policeman recording the ground plans of the house of a murder scene The drawings reproduced in color are all sourced from the Drawing Matter collection in Somerset UK and are fascinating objects in themselves but Lewis shifts our attention beyond the image to other possible histories that linger invisible beyond the page and in the process animates not just a series of archival documents but the writing of architectural history Drawing Matter Extracts ,2021 Drawing Matter Extracts 2 women writing architecture is edited by Helen Thomas and collects together 24 texts written by women in architectural practice and connected disciplines The anthology is published to coincide with the launch of the women writing architecture website www.womenwritingarchitecture.org an annotated bibliography of writing about architecture by women Page de titre Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, Library of Congress.
