Culturally Affirming Literacy Practices for Urban Elementary Students Lakia M. Scott, Barbara

Purdum-Cassidy, 2016-08-17 The nation's demographic of public schools are more ethnically racially and linguistically diverse than ever before Strauss 2014 However there are still educational policies and practices that call to question whether traditionally marginalized students receive an equitable education This is demonstrated in national achievement trends which highlight disproportionality ratings among minoritized student groups Also when examining school discipline policies expulsion ratings special education services and school choice movements all seem to handicap educational opportunity for low income Black and Brown students As American schools become more and more diverse it is imperative that the literacy practices used to teach young students of color reflect the nation's changing demographic This book provides practical insights guided by conceptual and contextual knowledge in understanding how to teach urban African American and Hispanic Latino students by discussing issues associated with critical pedagogies literacy and culturally appropriate instructional strategies that have demonstrated success for traditionally marginalized student populations This book examines culturally affirming literacy practices from three main components 1 scholarship 2 the field of practice and 3 teacher education models Each of these three are significant in understanding how to teach minoritized populations As such chapters have been organized into three main sections that address scholarship and research trends in the field and implications for teacher education models all in order to advance the literacy achievement of African American and Hispanic

Latino students Community Engagement, 2010 The Pennsylvania School Journal Thomas Henry Burrowes, James Pyle Wickersham, Elnathan Elisha Higbee, David Jewett Waller, Nathan C. Intercontinental Press Combined with Inprecator, 1985 A Documentary History of the Negro People in the United States Herbert Aptheker, 1962 Intercontinental Press, 1985 Code-switching Rebecca S. Wheeler, Rachel Swords, 2006 Wheeler and Swords show K-6 teachers how to use code switching and contrastive analysis to help students use prior knowledge to translate vernacular English into Standard English When African American students write or say Mama jeep is out of gas or The Earth revolve around the sun many teachers labeling this usage poor English or bad grammar assume that their students have problems with possession or don't know how to make subjects and verbs agree Forty years of linguistic research however demonstrates that the student is not making errors in Standard English the child is writing or speaking correctly in the language patterns of the home and of the community Building on the linguistic knowledge that children bring to school becomes the focus of this book which advocates the use of code switching to enable students to add another linguistic code Standard English to their linguistic toolbox Rather than drill the idea of Standard English into

students by labeling their home language as wrong the authors recommend teaching students to recognize the grammatical differences between home speech and school speech so that they are then able to choose the language style most appropriate to the time place audience and communicative purpose University researcher Rebecca Wheeler and urban elementary teacher Rachel Swords offer a practical hands on guide to code switching providing teachers with step by step instructions and numerous code switching charts that can be reproduced for classroom use The success of Wheeler s presentations in urban school districts and the positive results that Swords has observed in her own classroom speak to the effectiveness of the research and of this approach While the book focuses on language use in the elementary classroom the procedures and materials introduced can be easily adapted for middle and high school students Reporting Civil Rights Vol. 1 (LOA
