Engaging Undergraduates in Publishable Research: Best Practices Traci A. Giuliano, Jeanine L. M.

Skorinko, Marianne Fallon, 2019-11-20 Although many articles and books have been written about conducting research with undergraduates there is a dearth of research on the process of publishing with undergraduates Thus in this research topic we assembled a collection of 43 articles from 98 researchers worldwide who are passionate about and have had success in publishing high quality peer reviewed journal articles with undergraduates The diverse articles represent a wide range of practices to help researchers publish with undergraduates including structuring the curriculum to promote undergraduate research and publication optimizing research experiences for undergraduates training students in implementing advanced techniques accessing special populations or conducting research in off campus settings addressing institutional and career challenges for faculty and increasing inclusion and diversity Each article provides a unique and diverse perspective that nevertheless resonates across contexts and situations We hope that the ideas models techniques and practices in these articles will motivate and inspire readers to begin continue or rethink how they engage undergraduates in publishable research we also hope to stimulate empirical and quantitative research on the effectiveness of these ideas models techniques and practices

Academics in Action! Lauren Brinkley-Rubinstein, Bernadette Doykos, Nina C. Martin, Allison McGuire, 2016-01-04 The academy is often described as an ivory tower isolated from the community surrounding it Presenting the theory vision and implementation of a socially engaged program for the Department of Human and Organizational Development HOD in Peabody's College of Education and Human Development at Vanderbilt University Academics in Action describes a more integrated model wherein students and faculty work with communities learn from them and bring to bear findings from theory and research to generate solutions to community problems Offering examples of community engaged theory scholarship teaching and action Academics in Action describes the nuanced structures that foster and support their development within a research university Theory and action span multiple ecological levels from individuals and small groups to organizations and social structures The communities of engagement range from local neighborhoods and schools to arenas of national policy and international development Reflecting the unique perspectives of research faculty practitioners and graduate students Academics in Action documents a specific philosophy of education that fosters and supports engagement the potentially transformative nature of academic work for students faculty and the broader society and some of the implications and challenges of action oriented efforts in light of dynamics such as income inequality racism and global capitalism This edited volume chronicles teaching research and community action that influences both inside and outside the classroom as well as presents dimensions of a participatory model that set such efforts into action

Collaborative Research in Organizations Niclas Adler, A. B. (Rami) Shani, Alexander Styhre, 2004 Adler Shani and Styhre with contributions from many of the management researchers associated with the FENIX experiment have documented the essence of collaborative research in organizations The eighteen chapters in the book provide a window into the complexity of designing and managing collaborative research efforts in organizations and present an approach that is worth reading about reflecting upon and exploring further At Volvo Cars this collaboration has been an added value to our practice From the foreword by Hans Olov Olsson CEO and President Volvo Car Corporation Through collaboration we can deliver research outcomes not possible from solo or single team scholarship The experiments in collaborative research chronicled in this book are timely and important From the foreword by Andrew M Pettigrew Professor of Strategy and Organization Warwick Business school Associate Dean Warwick University U K This book responds in a timely manner to a most important subject area The editors have a proven track record and are well recognized in their fields around the world

The cases exhibit broad coverage and the depth is quite impressive Kenneth L Murrell University of West Florida Collaborative Research in Organizations Foundations for Learning Change and Theoretical Development leverages and sustains the role of management research while increasing the theoretical development of complex organizational and management issues The true partnership ideal and emergent inquiry process make collaborative research complex and difficult to organize lead and manage This book addresses these needs by revisiting traditional research ideals Collaborative Research in Organizations is organized in four sections Part I Framing the Challenge provides grounding in the historical context the emergent need and the challenges of working in the borderland between academy and industry Part II Lenses and Mechanisms presents a range of collaborative research approaches concepts frameworks and mechanisms positioning collaborative research as something other than one of many qualitative approaches Part III Illustrations are intended to provide specific examples of collaborative research projects in a variety of companies and industries that show how collaborative research is realized Most of the illustrations are based on collaborations between FENIX Program researchers at the Stockholm School of Economics and Chalmers University of Technology and leading Swedish organizations leveraging the Scandinavia tradition of boundary spanning learning endeavours Part IV Lessons highlights the common denominators between the different studies addresses some of the critiques of collaborative research and identifies critical challenges for future inquiry
