Digital Technology and Artificial Intelligence in Mathematics Education Assessment Eirini Geraniou, Cosette Crisan, Manolis Mavrikis, 2026-01-22 This timely and thought provoking book explores how artificial intelligence AI and digital technologies more generally are reshaping educational assessment in the field of mathematics It brings together a rich collection of international perspectives that offer a diverse and critical examination of the opportunities and challenges that digital technologies including artificial intelligence play in assessment The chapters span a broad range of topics including the transition to a digital assessment format designing multiple choice items and the use of AI for automated diagnosis example generation and feedback provision The book includes a framing chapter that critically examines current trends in the field and offers key recommendations for rethinking assessment. It calls for more empirical research and a fundamental rethink of assessment practices in light of digital technologies and AI. The volume as a whole also invites readers to engage in a broader conversation about the future of educational assessment and the role of digital technologies in transforming assessment in mathematics education. This essential resource for educators, researchers, curriculum developers, policymakers, and assessment stakeholders offers a comprehensive look at the evolving international landscape of assessment in mathematics education in the digital era. It also highlights directions for future research and encourages readers to shaping the future of digital technology and artificial intelligence in formative and summative assessment in mathematics education.

Classroom Assessment in Mathematics George W. Bright, Jeane M. Joyner, 1998. This book includes a summary of the recommendations of a working conference on classroom assessment in mathematics held in May 1997. The book also includes all of the working papers prepared for that conference. The recommendations are directed to the research community, directors of teacher enhancement projects, state education agencies, regional and local staff development projects, and institutions of higher education. This conference brought together researchers, acknowledged experts in the field of assessment, and practitioners to focus on an important component of the educational process, namely quality classroom assessment.

The Effects of the Washington State Education Reform on Schools and Classrooms, 2000. Researchers from RAND are studying the implementation and impact of the Washington reform on school and classroom practices, focusing on the subjects of writing and mathematics. This briefing presents findings from the first round of surveys administered to teachers and principals in the spring of 1999. At this time, elementary schools had already administered the Washington Assessment of Student Learning (WASL) for two years, voluntary in 1996-97 and mandatory in 1997-98, and middle schools had administered the test for one year, voluntary in 1997-98. Thus, the results describe principals' and teachers' early responses to the state education reform. The findings are based on principal and teacher self-reports about actions taken in their districts, schools, and classrooms, as well as their opinions about the reform.
