Global Monitoring Report 2005 ,2005-04-14 The year 2005 marks an important juncture for development as the international community takes stock of implementation of the Millennium Declaration signed by 189 countries in 2000 and discusses how progress toward the Millennium Development Goals MDGs can be accelerated The MDGs set clear targets for reducing poverty and other human deprivations and for promoting sustainable development What progress has been made toward these goals and what should be done to accelerate it What are the responsibilities of developing countries developed countries and international financial institutions Global Monitoring Report 2005 addresses these questions This report the second in an annual series assessing progress on the MDGs and related development outcomes has a special focus on Sub Saharan Africa the region that is farthest from the development goals and faces the toughest challenges in accelerating progress The report finds that without rapid action to accelerate progress the MDGs will be seriously jeopardized especially in Sub Saharan Africa which is falling short on all the goals It calls on the international community to seize the opportunities presented by the increased global attention to development to build momentum for the MDGs The report presents in depth analysis of the agenda and priorities for action It discusses improvements in policies and governance that developing countries need to make to achieve stronger economic growth and scale up human development and relevant key services It examines actions that developed countries need to take to provide more and better development aid and to reform their trade policies to improve market access for developing country exports And it evaluates how international financial institutions can strengthen and sharpen their support for this agenda Global Monitoring Report 2005 is essential reading for development practitioners and those interested in international affairs Global Monitoring Report International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (Washington, DC),2004 Global Monitoring Report, 2008 International Monetary Fund,2008 Global Monitoring Report 2008 the fifth in an annual series is essential reading for those who wish to follow the global development agenda and debate in 2008 The year marks the midpoint toward the 2015 deadline for achieving the Millennium Development Goals MDGs It is also an important year to work toward a consensus on how the world is going to respond to the challenge of climate change building on the foundation laid at the Bali climate change conference in December 2007 The report spans this agenda It provides a comprehensive assessment of progress toward the MDGs and related policies and actions It addresses the challenge of climate change and environmental sustainability and assesses its implications for development The report s assessment of MDGs at midpoint presents a mixed picture one of both significant progress and formidable challenges The first MDG reducing extreme poverty by half is likely to be met at the global level thanks to a remarkable surge in global economic growth over the past decade But on current trends the human development MDGs are unlikely to be met Prospects are gravest for the goals of reducing child and maternal mortality but shortfalls are also likely in the primary school completion nutrition and sanitation MDGs The potential effects of climate change compound the challenge of achieving the development goals and sustaining progress The report s messages are clear urgent action is needed to help the world get back on track to achieve the MDGs and urgent action is also needed to combat climate change that threatens the well being of all countries but particularly of poor countries and poor people The goals of development and environmental sustainability are closely related and the paths to those goals have important synergies Global Monitoring Report, 2010 International Monetary Fund,2010-04-22 What is the human cost of the global economic crisis This year s Global Monitoring Report The MDGs after the Crisis examines the impact of the worst recession since the Great Depression on poverty and human development outcomes in developing countries Although the recovery is under way the impact of the crisis will be lasting and immeasurable The impressive precrisis progress in poverty reduction will slow particularly in low income countries in Africa No household in developing countries is immune Gaps will persist to 2020 In 2015 20 million more people in Sub Saharan Africa will be in extreme poverty and 53 million more people globally Even households above the 1 25 a day poverty line in higher income developing countries are coping by buying cheaper food delaying other purchases reducing visits to doctors working longer hours or taking multiple jobs The crisis will also have serious costs on human development indicators 1 2 million more children under age five and 265 000 more infants will die between 2009 and 2015 350 000 more students will not complete primary education in 2015 100 million fewer people will have access to safe drinking water in 2015 because of the crisis History tells us that if we let the recovery slide and allow the crisis to lead to widespread domestic policy failures and institutional breakdowns in poor countries the negative impact on human development outcomes especially on children and women will be disastrous The international financial institutions and international community responded strongly and quickly to the crisis but more is needed to sustain the recovery and regain the momentum in achieving the Millennium Development Goals MDGs Developing countries will also need to implement significant policy reforms and strengthen institutions to improve the efficiency of service delivery in the face of fiscal constraints Unlike previous crises however this one was not caused by domestic policy failure in developing countries So better development outcomes will also hinge on a rapid global economic recovery that improves export conditions terms of trade and affordable capital flows as well as meeting aid commitments to low income countries Global Monitoring Report 2010 seventh in this annual series is prepared jointly by the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund It provides a development perspective on the global economic crisis and assesses the impact on developing countries their growth poverty reduction and other MDGs Finally it sets out priorities for policy responses both by developing countries and by the international community
