Globalizing Central Asia Geopolitics And The Challenges Of Economic Development:

Globalizing Central Asia Marlene Laruelle, Sebastien Peyrouse, 2015-02-12 In this global era Central Asia must be understood in both geo economic and geopolitical terms The region s natural resources compel the attention of rivalrous great powers and ambitious internal factions The local regimes are caught between the need for international collaborations to valorize these riches and the need to maintain control over them in the interest of state sovereignty Russia and China dominate the horizon with other global players close behind meanwhile neighboring countries are fractious and unstable with real potential for contagion This pathbreaking introduction to Central Asia in contemporary international economic and political context answers the needs of both academic and professional audiences and is suitable for course adoption

China and Central Asia in the Post-Soviet Era Muhamad S. Olimat, 2015-08-27 This manuscript examines Sino Middle Eastern relations on a bilateral level It highlights the depth of China s involvement in Central Asia with each country on a five dimensional approach security cooperation energy security trade relations political relations and cultural relations Regarding each of these criteria Central Asia enjoys a strategic significance to China s national security vital interests territorial integrity sovereignty regime survival and economic prosperity China has been an integral part of the political developments on the Central Asian political scene for over the past two millennia Their bilateral ties grew steadily since the independence of Central Asian republics in 1992 culminating into strategic partnership two decades later China and its partners in the region have embarked on the construction of the most ambitious gas pipelines network joint ventures in oil upstreaming and downstreaming mammoth highway and railroad projects trade zones construction projects and above all strategic security coordination in reference to unified and an integrated response to regional security threats Both sides are also engaged in a process of revival of the Silk Road in terms of its cultural diversity and trade relations Sino Central Asian volume of trade reached 50 billion heading steadily toward 100 in the coming five years Soft Power in Central Asia Kirill

Nourzhanov, Sebastien Peyrouse, 2021-05-25 Central Asia often evokes images of imperial power rivalry dating back to the 19th century Yet as the region s international politics becomes more complex in the age of globalization the need for new ways of looking at its many actors is more pressing than ever Today even the traditional great powers rely increasingly on subtle forms of influence to augment their military might and economic clout in order to achieve their objectives in Central Asia Bearing this in mind Soft Power in Central Asia examines the patterns of attraction and persuasion that help shape the political choices of countries in the region Starting with an investigation of soft power projection by the US Russia and China it sheds light on normative transfer and public diplomacy of the European Union Turkey and Israel and concludes with a discussion of the Central Asian republics active stance in the competition for the hearts and minds Containing original chapters contributed by leading experts in the field the volume will appeal to scholars and professionals with interest in international relations political science and Central Asian studies China, Russia and Central Asian Infrastructure Peter

Krasnopolsky,2022-08-17 This book evaluates Central Asian regionalism by analyzing the impact of Russia and China on physical infrastructure in the region The narrative builds a picture of the nature of the two powers influence on the development of regional connectivity in Central Asia The study covers the 30 year period since the dissolution of the Soviet Union with a focus on the last decade preceding the global pandemic Qualitative research methods i e documentary analysis media analysis and elite interviews are implemented to explore how activities of Russia and China impact regional cooperation among Central Asian states Multiple case studies of projects in the networked sectors of infrastructure i e transportation energy and telecommunications are used to build the argument and demonstrate the ways in which Russia s and China s engagement influence regional connectivity The book is of interest to the scholars who study international relations in Eurasia major power relations Sino Russian relations China foreign policy international institutions in Asia multilateralism and regionalism The empirical depth of the book attracts attention of area studies scholars who focus on Central Asia Central Eurasia and any of the five Central Asian states Additionally the scholars who analyze the roles of hard infrastructure find the book particularly important The in depth cases on multilateral financial institutions and regional networks particularly energy transportation and telecommunication are of great value to those interested in these respective sectors

China's Global Rebalancing and the New Silk Road B. R. Deepak,2018-01-10 This collaborative volume discusses the One Belt One Road or the New Silk Road initiative of Chinese President Xi Jinping from the perspectives of the Belt and Road countries This initiative has been viewed as a re globalization drive by China in the backdrop of financial crisis of the West and the latter s increasingly protectionist tendencies of late Rather than rebalancing towards a certain region this is supposed to be China s global rebalancing aimed at inclusiveness and a win win partnership The initiative has raised hopes as well as suspicions about China s goals and intentions that is whether this is in sync with China s foreign policy goals such as multipolarity no hegemonic aspirations and common security or if this is an antidote to the U S foreign policy goals in the region and China s ambition to realizing its long term vision for Asian regional and global order In this volume a galaxy of eminent academics from India China Pakistan Uzbekistan Germany and Southeast Asia have critically analysed every aspect of this mammoth project including the six major economic corridors identified by China for policy coordination infrastructure connectivity unimpeded trade monetary circulation and people to people exchanges The authors have interpreted China s peripheral regional as well as global diplomacy both over land and sea This topical volume is of interest to scholars and students of Asian studies China studies Asian history development studies international relations and international trade

Rumer,2017-07-05 The economic political and international profile of Central Asia has been the subject of much speculation since the region emerged from under the Soviet banner This book offers systematic informed analysis of developments in the newest of emerging market regions by a team of international experts including leading in country specialists After an astute survey of political regimes by Umirserik Kasenov Boris Rumer and Stanislav Zhukov present a comprehensive analysis of economic development and integrated issues In the final four chapters focused attention is devoted to foreign investment and trade questions and the most critical challenges confronting the two largest states Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan Central Asia Boris Z. Rumer, Stanislav Vicheslavovich Zhukov, 1998 The economic political and international profile of Central Asia has been the subject of much speculation since the region emerged from under the Soviet banner This book offers systematic informed analysis of developments in the newest of emerging market regions by a team of international experts including leading in country specialists After an astute survey of political regimes by Umirserik Kasenov Boris Rumer and Stanislav Zhukov present a comprehensive analysis of economic development and integrated issues In the final four chapters focused attention is devoted to foreign investment and trade questions and the most critical challenges confronting the two largest states Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan Provided by publisher Central Asia in Transition Boris Z. Rumer, 1996 Explores the complex and intertwined problems of geopolitics and economic transition of the five new countries that inherited from the Soviet Union the strategic positions and rich natural resources of Central Asia Economists and political scientists from the region offer their sometimes opposing views of the situation what led to it and how to deal with it some focusing on a particular country and some considering the region as a whole Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Central Asia Boris Rumer, Stanislav Zhukov, 1998-09-10 The economic political and international profile of Central Asia has been the subject of much speculation since the region emerged from under the Soviet banner This book offers systematic informed analysis of developments in the newest of emerging market regions by a team of international experts including leading in country specialists After an astute survey of political regimes by Umirerik Kasenov Boris Rumer and Stanislav Zhukov present a comprehensive analysis of economic development and integration issues In the final four chapters focused attention is devoted to foreign investment and trade questions and the most critical challenges confronting the two largest states Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2007 China's Rise and Reconfiguration of Central Asia's Geopolitics Roman Muzalevsky, Strategic Studies Institute, 2020-03-08 China's emergence as a global actor has questioned the position of the United States as the strongest power and the future of the Washington led global order But achieving the status of a truly global player wielding influence in all dimensions of power would require China among other things to leverage its regional influence in Central Asia This region is increasingly representing China's western leg of economic expansion and development and is of a growing strategic importance for Beijing It is also a region that should be of greater strategic importance to Washington which seeks to preserve its leading position in the international system and ensure China's peaceful integration in the global political security and economic architecture The question of future economic and security order in Central Asia is thus of paramount importance to global stability China is already projecting the strongest economic presence in the region and has the potential to build comprehensive influence across economic cultural political military and security spheres Just as in the Asia Pacific it is the rise of China and its perceived efforts at domination in Central Asia that are driving the reconfiguration of the region's geopolitics and are challenging the U S global supremacy requiring Washington to advance creative economic and military solutions in the heart of Eurasia To stay relevant globally and regionally the United States has to pursue a robust direct and long term strategy of engagement in Central Asia As it seeks to do so Washington cannot premise its cooperation with other powers in Central Asia on the isolation of China a global force calling for engagement where beneficial and containment where necessary Washington should boost military engagement in the region upgrade its New Silk Road Strategy NSRS advance cooperation with key partners and shape China's global ascendance by leveraging its position in Central Asia It should consider joining multilateral institutions involving the regional countries and China or seek the creation of new ones to shape China's regional activities It should link its NSRS with China's belt strategy where it benefits the region's development while ensuring multidirectional contours of regional geo economic forces It should also start pondering how to leverage its potential strategic relationship with Iran which links the Middle East with Central and South Asia and shares growing economic ties with China Finally it should develop platforms of cooperation with China in economic and security spheres pertaining to both global and regional affairs None of these tasks are easy to accomplish This policy monograph written in March 2015 sheds light on the crucial forces at work assesses the possibility and implications of China's hegemony in Central Asia and highlights the need for Washington to play real politics at the table rather than from across the high seas
