Foundations Of Distance Education Routledge Studies In Distance Education:

Foundations of Distance Education Desmond Keegan, 2013-12-19 Distance education and training provision has expanded dramatically over the past few years This best selling introduction to the field has helped many to understand the origins and background of distance education and has been used by students and professionals as a guide to policy and practice It has now been updated in the light of the developments in recent years in Eastern Europe and the enormous advances in the use of new technologies A new case study of distance education in China is also included The Foundations of Distance Education Desmond Keegan, 1986 Theoretical Principles of Distance Education Desmond Keegan, 2005-08-15 According to UNESCO statistics 10 million of the world's 600 million students study at a distance Theoretical Principles of Distance Education seeks to lay solid foundations for the education of these students and for the structures within which they study As a more industrialised form of education provision distance education is well adapted to the use of new communication technologies and brings to education many of the strengths and dangers of post industrialism The central focus of the study of distance education is the placing of the student at home or at work and the justification of the abandonment in this form of education of interpersonal face to face communication previously considered to be a cultural imperative for education in both east and west This book explores the problems that distance education poses to the theorist bringing together an international team of distance educators to address these issues for the first time in a systematic way The team comprises theoreticians administrators experts in educational technology and adult education experts in learning from video machines from computers and other forms of technology Contributions from Italy and Scandinavia contrast with viewpoints provided by scholars from the US Canada Australia and the UK Opening Education Terry Evans, Daryl Nation, 2013-04-15 We live in a society with ever changing needs and expectations Education practitioners and policy makers need therefore to face the challenges of new economic social and technological conditions in their work There is a global concern to develop forms of education and training which are open to the demands of needs of learners and which are accessible at times and places suitable to those learners Governments institutions and practitioners are developing and implementing policies which reflect these trends The overall theme of this book is the relationship between government and organizational policies and the work of practitioners in open and distance learning The book does this by exploring a selection of international examples The authors many of them recognized experts write from a wide range of international and organizational perspectives Each one draws on significant experience within his or her field Terry Evans is Head of the Graduate School of Education at Deakin University He was the foundation director of the Master of Distance Education course there and has extensive experience teaching undergraduate and postgraduate students Daryl Nation is Deputy Head of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences at Monash University He is Associate Professor in the School and divides his time between policy development research and teaching (Re)Inventing the Internet Andrew Feenberg, Norm

Friesen,2012-03-24 Although it has been in existence for over three decades the Internet remains a contested technology Its governance and role in civic life education and entertainment are all still openly disputed and debated The issues include censorship and network control privacy and surveillance the political impact of activist blogging peer to peer file sharing the effects of video games on children and many others Media conglomerates governments and users all contribute to shaping the forms and functions of the Internet as the limits and potentialities of the technologies are tested and extended What is most surprising about the Internet is the proliferation of controversies and conflicts in which the creativity of ordinary users plays a central role The title Re Inventing the Internet refers to this extraordinary flowering of agency in a society that tends to reduce its members to passive spectators This collection presents a series of critical case studies that examine specific sites of change and contestation These cover a range of phenomena including computer gaming cultures online education surveillance and the mutual shaping of digital technologies and civic life Resources in Education ,1997-10
