Science and Earth History Arthur N. Strahler, 1999-11-01 In this comprehensive treatment of the ongoing conflict between creationists and evolutionary scientists well known geomorphologist Arthur Strahler carefully examines creationists claims of scientific evidence for the six day divine creation of the universe followed by the catastrophic flood of Noah as claimed in Genesis The creationists arguments are examined and evaluated against the findings of mainstream science in the fields of cosmology astronomy geophysics geology paleontology and evolutionary biology Updated with a new preface and responses to recent attacks on evolutionary theory Science and Earth History can serve as both a popular overview of earth history and as a scholarly anecdote to the fictions of creationism once again finding their way into classrooms and universities Strahler illuminates the controversy by reviewing the philosophy methodology and sociology of empirical science as contrasted with the belief systems of religion and pseudoscience The author also includes lucid criteria for distinguishing science from pseudoscience and reviews the great discoveries and developments in science that point to the evolution of life over the earth s three billion year history

A Mind for Tomorrow Erika Erdmann, David Stover, 2000-03-30 Stover and Erdmann deal with the crises confronting today s world and argue that solutions will come not from new technology nor in retreating to an idealized agrarian past but by overhauling the beliefs that structure society They link the dilemmas facing civilization to a fundamental rift running through society one between religion and the humanities rooted in subjective experience and science which emphasizes objective knowledge They suggest a promising way of closing this rift found in the work of Nobel Laureate and neuroscientist Roger W Sperry They examine Sperry s lifework including his famous split brain research and show how it led him to propose a theory of consciousness that challenged science s dismissal of subjective experience as irrelevant By seeing consciousness as an emergent causal property of brain function Sperry reinstated subjective experience into the scientific worldview laid the foundation for the cognitive revolution that has since swept through psychology and created a means by which science can help create ethical systems better able to deal with today s challenges Stover and Erdmann conclude by looking at ways in which others have built upon Sperry s ideas and they hold out the hope that with the creation of belief systems more compatible with science a way out of humanity s current troubles may indeed be found The result is an excursion through a world of exciting ideas and a book sure to absorb anyone interested in the fate of our species and how that fate might be influenced for the better Students researchers scholars and concerned citizens particularly interested in cognitive psychology science and society and futures studies will find the book intriguing

Our Paper, 1911

The Encyclopaedia

Britannica: Fra to Har ,1910 The Athenaeum ,1895 Outlook Alfred Emanuel Smith, Francis Walton, 1885 Cult Archaeology & Creationism Francis B. Harrold, Raymond A. Eve, 1995 Understanding why this should be so and how we as a society might deal with these widespread pseudoscientific beliefs are the subjects at the heart of this study The Encyclopaedia Britannica: Fra to Har Hugh Chisholm, 1910 Encyclopedia of Evolution Stanley A. Rice, 2009

Evolutionary science is not only one of the greatest breakthroughs of modern science but also one of the most controversial. Perhaps more than any other scientific area, evolutionary science has caused us all to question what we are, where we came from, and how we relate to the rest of the universe. Encyclopedia of Evolution contains more than 200 entries that span modern evolutionary science and the history of its development. This comprehensive volume clarifies many common misconceptions about evolution. For example, many people have grown up being told that the fossil record does not demonstrate an evolutionary pattern and that there are many missing links. In fact, most of these missing links have been found, and their modern representatives are often still alive today. The biographical entries represent evolutionary scientists within the United States who have had and continue to have a major impact on the broad outline of evolutionary science. The biographies chosen reflect the viewpoints of scientists working within the United States. Five essays that explore interesting questions resulting from studies in evolutionary science are included, as well. The appendix consists of a summary of Charles Darwin's Origin of Species, which is widely considered to be the foundational work of evolutionary science and one of the most important books in human history. The five essays include: How much do genes control human behavior? What are the ghosts of evolution? Can an evolutionary scientist be religious? Why do humans die? Are humans alone in the universe? The Athenaeum James Silk Buckingham, John Sterling, Frederick Denison Maurice, Henry Stebbing, Charles Wentworth Dilke, Thomas Kibble Hervey, William Hepworth Dixon, Norman Maccoll, Vernon Horace Rendall, John Middleton Murry, 1895
