advances in palaeocological reconstruction have also allowed for new interpretations of the evidence for the earliest human impacts on the environment. It is essential that such evidence is examined in the context of modern trends in social sciences and humanities. This stimulating new book argues that convergence of the two approaches can provide a more holistic understanding of long term physical and human processes. Split into two major sections, this book attempts to bridge the gap between the sciences and humanities. The first section provides an analysis of the methodological tools employed in examining processes of environmental change. Empirical research in the fields of palaeoecology and Quaternary studies is combined with the latest theoretical views of nature and landscape occurring in cultural geography, archaeology and anthropology. The author examines the way in which environmental management decisions are made. The book then moves on to discuss the relevance of this perspective to contemporary issues through a wide variety of international case studies including World Heritage protection, landscape preservation, indigenous people and cultural tourism.

Human Ecology in the New Millennium Veena Bhasin, M. K. Bhasin, Vinay K. Srivastava, 2001. This volume brings together the contribution of certain internationally known scholars to human ecology. Each of these scholars has made a significant and lasting contribution to the understanding of the relationship between human beings and environment and their work has implications for theoretical as well as applied interests. Looking at the range of the contributions in this volume, we may submit that the field of human ecology is truly multi disciplinary and that is the way in which human ecology has to be approached. The volume has twenty two papers that are classified into the following seven units: I Perspectives on Human Ecology, II Ecology and Health, IV Ecology and Human Growth, IV Ecology and Resources, V Ecology and Biological Dimensions, VI Ecology, Archaeological Finds and History, VII Ecology, Disaster and Global change.

The Encyclopedia of Human Ecology Julia R. Miller, 2003. Examines the way people interact with both natural and man made environments from many aspects of study including biology, psychology, sociology and environmental science.
