Documentary Comics Nina Mickwitz, 2016-04-29 Can comics be documentary and can documentary take the form of and thus be comics Examining comics as documentary this book challenges the persistent assumption that ties documentary to recording technologies and instead engages an understanding of the category in terms of narrative performativity and witnessing Through a cluster of early twenty first century comics Nina Mickwitz argues that these comics share a documentary ambition to visually narrate and represent aspects and events of the real world Comics and Migration Ralf Kauranen, Olli Löytty, Aura Nikkilä, Anna Vuorinne, 2023-03-31 Comics and human mobility have a long history of connections This volume explores these entanglements with a focus on both how comics represent migration and what applied uses comics have in relation to migration The volume examines both individual works of comic art and examples of practical applications of comics from across the world Comics are well suited to create understanding highlight truthful information and engender empathy in their audiences but are also an art form that is preconditioned or even limited by its representational and practical conventions Through analyses of various practices and representations this book questions the uncritical belief in the capacity of comics assesses their potential to represent stories of exile and immigration with compassion and discusses how xenophobia and nationalism are both reinforced and questioned in comics The book includes essays by both researchers and practitioners such as activists and journalists whose work has combined a focus on comics and migration It predominantly scrutinises comics and activities from more peripheral areas such as the Nordic region the German language countries Latin America and southern Asia to analyse the treatment and visual representation of migration in these regions This topical and engaging volume in the Global Perspectives in Comics Studies series will be of interest to researchers and students of comics studies literary studies visual art studies cultural studies migration and sociology It will also be useful reading for a wider academic audience interested in discourses around global migration and comics traditions

Nina Mickwitz,2014      Comics and Nina Mickwitz,2014      Documenting Trauma in Comics Dominic Davies,Candida Rifkind,2020-05-21 Why are so many contemporary comics and graphic narratives written as memoirs or documentaries of traumatic events Is there a specific relationship between the comics form and the documentation and reportage of trauma How do the interpretive demands made on comics readers shape their relationships with traumatic events And how does comics documentation of traumatic pasts operate across national borders and in different cultural political and politicised contexts The sixteen chapters and three comics included in Documenting Trauma in Comics set out to answer exactly these questions Drawing on a range of historically and geographically expansive examples the contributors bring their different perspectives to bear on the tangled and often fraught intersections between trauma studies comics studies and theories of documentary practices and processes The result is a collection that shows how comics is not simply related to trauma but a generative force that has become central to its remembrance documentation and study
