A Research Guide to Cartographic Resources Eva H. Dodsworth, 2018-09-22 The interdisciplinary uses of traditional cartographic resources and modern GIS tools allow for the analysis and discovery of information across a wide spectrum of fields A Research Guide to Cartographic

Resources navigates the numerous American and Canadian cartographic resources available in print and online offering researchers academics and students with information on how to locate and access the large variety of resources new and old. Dozens of different cartographic materials are highlighted and summarized along with lists of map libraries and geospatial centers and related professional associations. A Research Guide to Cartographic Resources consists of 18 chapters, two appendices, and a detailed index that includes place names and libraries structured in a manner consistent with most reference guides including cartographic categories such as atlases, dictionaries, gazetteers, handbooks, maps, plans, GIS data, and other related material. Almost all of the resources listed in this guide are categorized by geography down to the county level, making efficient work of the type of material required to meet the information needs of those interested in researching place-specific cartographic-related resources. Additionally, this guide will help those interested in not only developing a comprehensive collection in these subject areas but get an understanding of what materials are being collected and housed in specific map libraries, geospatial centers, and their related websites. Of particular value are the sections that offer directories of cartographic and GIS libraries as well as comprehensive lists of geospatial datasets down to the county level. This volume combines the traditional and historical collections of cartography with the modern applications of GIS-based maps and geospatial datasets.

Mapping Our World Using GIS Anita M. Palmer, Roger Palmer, Lyn Malone, 2008. A follow-up to Mapping Our World: GIS Lessons for Educators, this second volume contains updated materials and lessons that combine geography, data collection, mapping, and critical analysis to guide educators and students through course content in new ways.

GIS World, 1997. GIS and Spatial Analysis for the Social Sciences Robert Nash Parker, Emily K.

Asencio, 2009-09-10. This is the first book to provide sociologists, criminologists, political scientists, and other social scientists with the methodological logic and techniques for doing spatial analysis in their chosen fields of inquiry. The book contains a wealth of examples as to why these techniques are worth doing over and above conventional statistical techniques using SPSS or other statistical packages. GIS is a methodological and conceptual approach that allows for the linking together of spatial data or data that is based on a physical space with non-spatial data which can be thought of as any data that contains no direct reference to physical locations.

Geocomputation with R Robin Lovelace, Jakub Nowosad, Jannes Muenchow, 2019-03-22. Geocomputation with R is for people who want to analyze, visualize, and model geographic data with open-source software. It is based on R, a statistical programming language that has powerful data processing, visualization, and geospatial capabilities. The book equips you with the knowledge and skills to tackle a wide range of issues manifested in geographic data, including those with scientific, societal, and environmental implications. This book will interest people from many backgrounds, especially Geographic Information Systems (GIS) users interested in applying their domain-specific knowledge in a powerful open-source language for data science, and R users interested in extending their skills to handle spatial data The book is divided into three parts I Foundations aimed at getting you up to speed with geographic data in R II extensions which covers advanced techniques and III applications to real world problems The chapters cover progressively more advanced topics with early chapters providing strong foundations on which the later chapters build Part I describes the nature of spatial datasets in R and methods for manipulating them It also covers geographic data import export and transforming coordinate reference systems Part II represents methods that build on these foundations It covers advanced map making including web mapping bridges to GIS sharing reproducible code and how to do cross validation in the presence of spatial autocorrelation Part III applies the knowledge gained to tackle real world problems including representing and modeling transport systems finding optimal locations for stores or services and ecological modeling Exercises at the end of each chapter give you the skills needed to tackle a range of geospatial problems Solutions for each chapter and supplementary materials providing extended examples are available at <https://geocompr.github.io/geocompr/pkg/articles/> Dr Robin Lovelace is a University Academic Fellow at the University of Leeds where he has taught R for geographic research over many years with a focus on transport systems Dr Jakub Nowosad is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Geoinformation at the Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznan where his focus is on the analysis of large datasets to understand environmental processes Dr Jannes Muenchow is a Postdoctoral Researcher in the GIScience Department at the University of Jena where he develops and teaches a range of geographic methods with a focus on ecological modeling statistical geocomputing and predictive mapping All three are active developers and work on a number of R packages including `stplanr`, `sabre` and `RQGIS` The agi source book for geographic information systems Chris Corbin,1999
