Essays in Architectural Criticism Alan Colquhoun, 1981 This collection of 17 of Alan Colquhoun's essays marks a watershed in the development of architectural thinking over the past three decades comprising a virtual theory of Modernism in architecture

Architecture Re-assembled Trevor Garnham, 2013-04-26 Beginning from the rise of modern history in the eighteenth century this book examines how changing ideas in the discipline of history itself has affected architecture from the beginning of modernity up to the present day It reflects upon history in order to encourage and assist the reader in finding well founded principles for architectural design This is not simply another history of architecture nor a history of histories Setting buildings in their contemporaneous ideas about history it spans from Fischer von Erlach to Venturi and Rossi and beyond to architects working in the fallout from both the Modern Movement Aalto Louis Kahn Aldo van Eyck and Post modernism such as Rafael Moneo and Peter Zumthor It shows how Soane Schinkel and Stirling amongst others made a meaningful use of history and contrasts this with how a misreading of Hegel has led to an abuse of history and an uncritical flight to the future This is not an armchair history but a lively discussion of our place between past and future that promotes thinking for making

Architect Knows Best Simon Richards, 2016-04-15 The idea that buildings could be used to reform human behaviour and improve society was fundamental to the modernist architecture and planning of people like Walter Gropius Le Corbusier and Jos Luis Sert in the first half of the 20th century Their proposals for functional zoning multi level transport high rise living and machine inspired aesthetics came under attack from the 1950s onwards and many alternative approaches to architecture and planning emerged It was thought that the environmental determinist strand of the discourse was killed off at this time as well This book argues that it was not but on the contrary that it has deepened and diversified Many of the most prominent architect planners continue to design with a view to improving the behaviour of individual people and of society at large By looking at and interviewing major figures and movements of recent years in Britain Europe and America including Leon Krier Peter Eisenman Andrés Duany Jane Jacobs Robert Venturi and Denise Scott Brown it demonstrates the myriad ways that architect planners seek to shape human behaviour through buildings In doing so the book raises awareness of this strand within the discourse and examines its different purposes and manifestations It questions whether it is an ineradicable and beneficial part of architecture and planning or a regrettable throwback to a more authoritarian phase discusses why it is seldom acknowledged directly and whether it could be handled more responsibly and with greater understanding Richards does not provide any simple solutions but in conclusion is critical of architect planners who abuse the rhetoric of social reform simply to leverage their attempts to secure building commissions while being more sympathetic towards those who appear to have a sincere desire to improve society through their buildings

The Architecture of Red Vienna, 1919-1934 Eve Blau, 1999 Encyclopedic in its coverage this seminal work focuses on the architecture of Prague from the turn of the century to the end of the Second World War a rich matrix within which to place the figures who created the powerful innovative spirits of modern Czech architecture The book documents the architects structures and theoretical underpinnings that helped to shape Prague s cultural heritage and present day artistic spirit

The Theory of Architecture Paul-Alan Johnson,1994 This jargon free guide to design and architecture theory helps professionals engage in the discourse of where and what architecture is and has been Style and Epoch Moiseĭ Iĭkovlevich Ginzburg,1982 Preface by Kenneth Frampton Moisei Iakovlevich Ginzburg one of the founders and chief spokesmen of the Constructivist movement in Soviet architecture combined the talents of scholar theoretician writer and practicing architect Originally published in Moscow in 1924 his book Style and Epoch is considered by many to be the single most important piece of writing on architecture to come out of Russia in this century It elucidates the aims and ideals of a Constructivist architecture providing what is essentially an official manifesto of the Constructivist program and becoming the cornerstone of virtually all of the Constructivist writings that followed Its translation makes available to English readers one of the seminal works of modern architectural theory Style and Epoch has often been compared to Le Corbusier s Vers Une Architecture published the year before Ginzburg s book as a classic of early twentieth century architectural thought In it Ginzburg expresses admiration for the products of engineering and machine technology and voices dismay at the failure to apply the means of that technology to improving architecture By virtue of his unusually broad education Ginzburg was able to draw upon elements of Western architecture and literature in such a way as to connect the Russian avant garde with the simultaneously evolving network of progressive European movements The result is a cogent analysis of architectural composition from antiquity to modern times in which Ginzburg attempts to plot those universal laws that determine any work of architecture and proposes a systematic design method that is both rational and humane An Oppositions Book
