Managing for Healthy Ecosystems David J. Rapport, Bill L. Lasley, Dennis E. Rolston, N. Ole Nielsen, Calvin O. Qualset, Ardeshir B. Damania, 2002-10-29 One of the critical issues of our time is the dwindling capacity of the planet to provide life support for a large and growing human population Based on a symposium on ecosystem health Managing for Healthy Ecosystems identifies key issues that must be resolved if there is to be progress in this complex area such as Evolving methods for regional ecosystem health assessment employing complex adaptive systems coupled with adaptive technologies to permit accurate determination of changes in regional and global environments Issues and methods for assessing monitoring and managing diversity and its impact on human health in the context of climate change agroecosystems restoration of forests politics culture and tradition Leading thinkers in the field provide a coherent synthesis and a benchmark for the practice of this emerging field worldwide The more than 100 peer reviewed papers are grouped into three major parts The first Emerging Concepts explores the diverse meanings of ecosystem health within ecological socio economic and human health perspectives and the linkages to related concepts such as ecological integrity sustainable development and ecological footprints The second part Issues and Methods introduces methods for assessing and monitoring ecosystem health including strategies for gaining political and stakeholder input and support for science based ecosystem management The final part Case Studies reports experiences of interdisciplinary teams grappling with specific issues in a variety of aquatic and terrestrial ecosystems

Climate Change and Environmental Ethics Ved P. Nanda, 2012-09-30 There is a broad consensus that climate change presents the international community with a formidable challenge Yet progress on all fronts prevention mitigation and adaptation has been slow Ved P Nanda finds an explanation for this disparity in the sharp divide between the developed and developing countries Developing countries demand that major industrialized nations provide the necessary resources and technology to address climate change while many developed countries seek firm commitments and timetables on action from the developing countries The result is a stalemate Climate Change and Environmental Ethics contains first rate research and thinking from scholars from multiple disciplines ethics ecology philosophy economics political science history and international law What distinguishes this volume from recent work on climate change are two of its special features One is the multi disciplinary backgrounds of the scholars their stellar experiences and the wisdom with which they express not simply their philosophy and theory but also their suggestions for concrete specific action in practical terms The second is the special niche this volume fills in its overarching theme of the need for a renewed environmental ethic that can bring together these disparate but interconnected views This volume explores alternative ways of conceiving our relation to the natural world A spirit of international cooperation and collaboration is needed to meet the challenge The reader is compelled to think anew about our understanding of the scientific and technical issues as well as our values and ethical responsibilities regarding climate change

Rights of

Nature Daniel P. Corrigan, Markku Oksanen, 2021-05-16 Rights of nature is an idea that has come of age In recent years a diverse range of countries and jurisdictions have adopted these norms which involve granting legal rights to nature or natural objects such as rivers forests or ecosystems This book critically examines the idea of natural objects as right holders and analyzes legal cases policies and philosophical issues relating to this development Drawing on contributions from a range of experts in the field Rights of Nature A Re examination investigates the potential for this innovative idea to revolutionize the concepts of rights standing and recognition as traditionally understood in many legal systems Taking as its starting point Stone s influential 1972 article Should Trees Have Standing the book examines the progress rights of nature have made since that time by identifying central themes unifying principles and key distinctions in how rights of nature discourse has been operationalized in the disciplines of law philosophy and the social sciences These themes and principles are illustrated through a wide variety of examples including ecosystem services indigenous thinking and ecological restoration demonstrating how the relationship between humanity and the natural world may be transforming Taking a philosophical political and legal perspective this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental law and policy environmental ethics and philosophy

Protected Land Douglas J. Spieles, 2010-09-02 By many measures Earth s ecosystems are stressed Actually it may be more accurate to say that Earth s remaining ecosystems are stressed The fact is that most of the planet s biomes support only a fraction of the biological communities they once did primarily because humans have converted large areas of land to alternate uses More than two thirds of the global temperate forests half of the grasslands even a third of desert ecosystems have been conscripted for human uses like agriculture construction harvest and extraction Cultivation alone covers a quarter of the habitable terrestrial surface Aquatic ecosystems have not fared any better An estimated half of the world s wetlands are gone particularly those of coastal regions or on arable land About a fifth of the coral reefs and a third of the mangrove swamps of a century ago have been lost in just the last few decades The volume of water impounded by dams quadrupled over the same period it now far exceeds the volume of water in unimpeded rivers Millennium Ecosystem Assessment 2005 Mitsch and Gosselink 2007 So any assessment of ecosystem status is necessarily an analysis of fragments and remnants and many of these are degraded by one or more anthropogenic stressors

Child Law Laura Westra, 2014-06-17 Child Law starts with the question Who is the Child In direct contrast to the CRC which calls for putting the interests of the child first in all policies dealing with children it appears that the interests of others are the major consideration de facto In law children s right to protection is severely limited by the presence of a maximum age limit with no consideration of the starting point current and ongoing scientific research has demonstrated the effects of this non consideration in a number of abnormalities and diseases not only in children but in adults and the elderly The WHO has published a number of studies to that effect and the 2012 Report on Endocrine Disruptors more than confirms this claim This and other scientific insights that have largely been ignored show the flaws and inadequacies of the legal regimes intended to protect children in a number of areas from the basic public health to the right to normal development child labor law conventions in conflict situations as a result of climate and other events children as illegal migrants and as inmates in prison camps

Transdisciplinary Challenges in Landscape Ecology and Restoration Ecology - An Anthology Zev Naveh, 2007-06-06

Capitalizing on forty years of intensive ecological studies this anthology presents a collection of widely dispersed major publications on theoretical and practical Mediterranean global environmental and landscape issues Each chapter features a comprehensive study of ecological and landscape issues synthesized in the introduction and woven with autobiographical experiences The concluding chapter calls for a transdisciplinary shift in all environmental scientific fields and particularly in landscape and restoration ecology to cope with the complex closely interwoven ecological socio economical political and cultural crises facing human society during the present crucial transition from the industrial to the post industrial global information age

Updating and broadening the scope of the groundbreaking Springer book on Landscape Theory and Applications by the author and Lieberman 1994 this is a unique transdisciplinary attempt based on advanced systems complexity theories which link the natural and human sciences
