

Booster Water Radiator.

The flushing of the booster radiator should be carried out once every two years, or at any time if there are signs of sludge in the cooling system.

- a) Drain the cooling system and disconnect main battery leads.
- b) Disconnect and remove all air hoses and water hoses.
- c) Disconnect pump connections to water leads, and remove booster from cab, after removing the mounting bolts.
- d) Flush booster radiator by connecting one pipe to normal main water supply, with a rubber hose, the other pipe discharge to waste. After a minute or two, reverse the connections and repeat flush until clear water is discharged.
- e) If the radiator is badly clogged, this will be indicated by a poor discharge flow. The radiator in this case should be returned to the works for servicing.
