Farmer Innovation In Africa A Source Of Inspiration For Agricultural Development:

Farmer Innovation in Africa Chris Reij, Ann Waters-Bayer, 2014-07-10 One of Africa's major untapped resources is the creativity of its farmers. This book presents a series of clear and detailed studies that demonstrate how small scale farmers both men and women experiment and innovate in order to improve their livelihoods despite the adverse conditions and lack of appropriate external support with which they have to contend. The studies are based on fieldwork in a wide variety of farming systems throughout Africa and have been written primarily by African researchers and extension specialists. Numerous lively examples show how a participatory approach to agricultural research and development that builds on local knowledge and innovation can stimulate the creativity of all involved not only the farmers. This approach which recognizes the farmers capacity to innovate as the crucial component of success provides a much needed alternative to the conventional transfer of technology paradigm. This book is a rich source of case studies and analyses of how agricultural research and development policy can be changed. It presents evidence of the resilience and resolution of rural communities in Africa and will be an inspiration for development workers, researchers and policy makers as well as for students and teachers of agriculture environment and sustainable development. Innovations as Key to the Green Revolution in Africa Andre

Bationo, Boaz Waswa, Jeremiah M. Okeyo, Fredah Maina, Job Maguta Kihara, 2011-08-30 Africa can achieve self sufficiency in food production through adoption of innovations in the agriculture sector. Numerous soil fertility and crop production technologies have been generated through research however wide adoption has been low. African farmers need better technologies, more sustainable practices and fertilizers to improve and sustain their crop productivity and to prevent further degradation of agricultural lands. The agricultural sector also needs to be supported by functional institutions and policies that will be able to respond to emerging challenges of globalization and climate change. David Livingstone and the

Myth of African Poverty and Disease Sjoerd Rijpma, 2015-06-24 This study about David Livingstone is different from all other publications about him. Here Livingstone is not the main topic of interest; the focus of the author is on nutrition and health in pre colonial Africa and Livingstone is his key informant. David Livingstone and the Myth of African Poverty and Disease is an unusual book. After a close examination of Livingstone's writings and comparative reading of contemporary authors, Sjoerd Rijpma has been able to draw cautious conclusions about the relatively favourable conditions of health and nutrition in southern and central Africa during the pre colonial period. His findings shed new light on the medical history of Sub Saharan Africa. The surprise awaiting travellers in and also before 19th century Africa was that the inhabitants of the interior even the slaves were healthier and better fed than many of their contemporaries in Europe's Industrial Revolution. An impressive piece of scholarship truly forensic in its close reading and re reading of Livingstone's published works and those of other travellers during the same era, clearly a labour of love which has taken years to complete. Study on impacts of farmer-led research supported by civil society organizations Wettasinha, C.,Waters-Bayer, A.,van Veldhuizen, L.,Quiroga, G.,Swaans, K.,2015-01-15 Decades of scientific research related to agriculture and natural resource management have brought limited benefits to smallholder farmers including crop farmers fishers livestock keepers and other resource users Therefore donors policymakers and civil society organizations CSOs such as farmer organizations and nongovernmental organizations NGOs are urging the formal research sector to make its work more useful to smallholder farmers Many institutions of agricultural research and development are now seeking ways to engage more closely with smallholders in order to conduct research that is more relevant for and accessible to them and are seeking examples and good practices as sources of learning Some examples of research that is focused on smallholders and in which the process is co managed and driven by smallholders can be found in informal research initiatives specifically those which are facilitated by CSOs The purpose of this study was to identify such examples of informal agricultural research and development that could be documented and thus made accessible to formal researchers This report also describes farmer led research findings and their dissemination and analyzes available evidence on the impact of farmer led approaches to agricultural research and development on rural livelihoods local capacity to innovate and adapt and influence on governmental institutions of agricultural research and development

Community Innovations in Sustainable Land Management Maxwell Mudhara,Saa Dittoh,Mohamed Sessay,William Critchley,Sabina Di Prima,2016-06-23 It is increasingly recognized that land can be managed most sustainably through involving local communities This book highlights the potential of a new methodology of uncovering and stimulating community initiatives in sustainable land management in Africa Analyses of four contrasting African countries Ghana Morocco South Africa and Uganda show that as communities directly face the challenges of land degradation they are likely to develop initiatives themselves in terms of sustainable land management These initiatives or innovations may be more appropriate and sustainable than those emanating from research stations located far from the communities The book describes the rationale of the approach used the set of steps followed how the project managed to engage the communities to understand the importance of the activities they were undertaking and how they were stimulated to improve and extend their initiatives and innovativeness Examples covered include soil fertility community forestry afforestation water invasive species and grazing land management Central to the book is the way communities and scientists interacted between the four countries and learnt from each other The book also shows how the
