Sung, M.R. Lauer, 2000-10-31

Our purpose in writing this book was to produce a clinically oriented non multi authored textbook of cardiac electrophysiology that would be useful to practicing electrophysiologists cardiologists fellows in training as well as associated electrophysiology professionals including nurses and technologists While all clinical textbooks risk becoming outdated even before they are published and few textbooks of a manageable size can claim to be completely comprehensive our goal was to produce a book that systematically presents a thorough discussion of the fundamental principles and concepts important to the practice of clinical electrophysiology We do not discuss basic cellular electrophysiology for its sake alone but instead include basic science material only when it is helpful in explaining the overlying clinical principles Cardiac electrophysiology as with any subspecialty behaves as a living organism with continuous evolution of its standards and practices However even though the details and tools of management catheters drugs devices etc may change with dazzling speed the fundamental principles of diagnosis and management generally change very little and they remain the critical underpinning of the day to day management of patients with cardiac arrhythmias In the first third of the book we present the principles of clinical cardiac electrophysiology as it is currently practiced Implantable
