Understanding Burnout Recovery Among Native-Born Korean Missionaries Hannah Kyong-Jin Cho, 2020-01-29 In this timely book Cho provides mission scholars sending churches and mission agencies with an understanding of Korean missionaries burnout recovery process Her study of Korean missionary burnout recovery included thirty nine research participants who had experienced burnout in missionary service and who subsequently recovered Participants reported a variety of physical emotional and spiritual symptoms as well as relational difficulties experienced during burnout Cho describes how their self help approach characterized by independent religious self effort brought only temporary relief Through self care however they experienced genuine recovery Self care that leads to lasting recovery is holistic and grace based characterized by a correct understanding of the roles of God and others in their lives and engagement in authentic community for interdependent care This study also gives insightful recommendations to missionary member care systems mission agencies and other sending organizations in an Asian cultural context about how to care for Korean missionaries It is also intended for counselors of home churches so that they can provide better member care for burned out missionaries Lastly this study advances research into contextually appropriate paradigms and strategies helpful to cross cultural missionaries in the area of both Korean missionaries and non Western studies in missionary member care

Hybridizing Mission Peter T. Lee, 2022-09-27 This qualitative study explores intercultural social dynamics among international Christian workers who are part of multicultural teams engaged in Christian ministries in a North African country It seeks to understand these workers lived realities at intersections of multiple cultural flows Ethnographic methods were used to collect and analyze data and forty nine international Christian workers were interviewed The findings of this study indicate that intercultural Christian workers go through complex intercultural social processes interwoven in the fabric of their everyday life These processes are mediated by their social experiences in the local North African context and their multicultural teams resulting in significant changes in their personal dispositions and social behaviors Based on these findings a working concept of diasporic habitus is developed and the practice of double discourses of culture is further examined This research suggests that some existing missiological concepts need to be revisited and recommends further interdisciplinary conversations involving cultural anthropology and sub fields in psychology about the changes that happen to people in intercultural missions It also calls for a reflexive approach to missiological research that incorporates awareness of one's situatedness and the lasting impact of historical entanglements on contemporary intercultural relations

Challenges and Opportunities of WTO on Services in Selected ESCWA Member

Countries ,2001 The multilateral WTO General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS the first set of legally enforceable rules ever negotiated to cover international trade in services is now a reality This Agreement comprises the institutional framework for the many services internationally traded among countries and is intended to insure that each WTO member treat the services and service suppliers of other members no less favourably than its own One of the most important service sectors covered in the Agreement is tourism with its crucial role in the economic growth of many countries This study deals with such services and their role in the economy with specific reference to tourism and the implications of the legal framework of the GATS and its commitments regarding that sector An analysis of the tourism sector both in its regional sector and international dimensions is supported with case studies of two ESCWA member countries Egypt and Jordan which have made significant progress in this area
