Exploring Mathematics Through Literature Articles And Lessons For Prekindergarten Through Grade 8:

Exploring Mathematics Through Literature Diane Thiessen, 2004 This collection of articles and lessons provides classroom examples of how to use children's literature to teach mathematics effectively in prekindergarten through eighth grade. The articles focus on five content strands: number and operations, algebra, geometry, measurement, and data analysis and probability, and describe how the different authors have used specific books to help their students learn mathematics. Most of the articles involve communication, problem solving, representation, and reasoning, and some of them address connections. Helpful teacher notes indicate the grade range, topic, literature selection featured in the lesson materials, needed discussion of the mathematics, and questions for students. Blackline masters of recording sheets are also included for most lessons.

Teaching Mathematics as Storytelling Rina Zazkis, Peter Liljedahl, 2019-02-11 This book presents storytelling in mathematics as a medium for creating a classroom in which mathematics is appreciated, understood, and enjoyed. The authors demonstrate how students' mathematical activity can be engaged via storytelling. Readers are introduced to many mathematical stories of different kinds, such as stories that provide a frame or a background to mathematical problems, stories that deeply intertwine with the content, and stories that explain concepts or ideas. Moreover, the authors present a framework for creating new stories, ideas for using and enriching existing stories, as well as several techniques for storytelling that make telling more interactive and more appealing to the learner. This book is of interest for those who teach mathematics or teach teachers to teach mathematics. It may be of interest to those who like stories or like mathematics or those who dislike either mathematics or stories but are ready to reconsider their position.
