It presents new and aspiring P 12 educational leaders with the fundamental knowledge and skills to supervise, analyze and implement budgets that make the best and most effective use of limited resources. By exploring the foundational elements of fiscal administration and outlining the process step by step, this text carefully takes leaders through real world examples and includes myriad opportunities for application. Indeed, a major goal of this text is to provide readers with a set of technical skills that can be applied across a range of contexts. Our expectation is that current and future P 12 budget managers and educational leaders will find this text invaluable in their day to day work and that the material presented here will help them engage in fruitful decisions around the allocation of scarce resources.

Recent Advancements in Education Finance and Policy Thomas Downes, Kieran M. Killeen, 2022-10-01 The past decade has seen a steady flow of important and innovative papers documenting the short and long term effects of finance reforms and the heterogeneity of the effects of reforms exemplified by papers like Jackson Johnson Persico 2016, LaFortune Rothstein Schanzenbach 2018, Hyman 2017 and Candelaria and Shores 2019. Those papers have reinvigorated research on the effects of finance reforms while raising important questions about how to best design a finance system and generate necessary revenues. The papers mentioned above, along with other papers too numerous to mention, have taken advantage of better data and better methods to address long standing questions and generate provocative new answers. Since the landscape has changed quickly, policy makers and prospective researchers require a summary of the current state of the research on the effects of school finance reforms. Answers are also needed to such questions as: To what extent are lessons from the Great Recession applicable to the Covid 19 induced crisis? For example, how will states allocate cuts in grants and will those cuts undo state progress in equalizing educational access? Are there strategies for allocating resources that best preserve student learning? How do financing systems need to be modified to accommodate greater use of online education? How should school finance systems be designed to provide equal access or at a minimum adequate access to students with special needs? Why is there significant heterogeneity in the results of different finance reforms? What have been the effects of recent state efforts to reduce the role of the property tax in financing K 12 education? How should finance systems be designed to more effectively close persistent achievement gaps? How, if at all, should states integrate the financing of preschool education with the financing of elementary and secondary education? To help prepare the next generation of researchers and policy makers in the realm of school finance, this volume includes papers that summarize the current state of research on the questions above, as well as other pressing questions in education finance and policy. The book aims to bridge a space between comprehensive textbooks and journal articles in the field of education finance and policy. There are two main target audiences. The book is meant to serve professionals like school district administrators and education policy practitioners that desire a contemporary update to their previous study of education finance and policy issues. These audiences often have limited access to peer reviewed journals and knowledge of pertinent government and related policy reports in the field The book is also meant to serve students and faculty from programs in public administration public policy community development and applied economics education administration educational leadership and policy studies that are studying content related to education policy the economics of education state and local public finance and taxation Some upper level undergraduate students may also benefit from this resource
