Consuming Environments Mike Budd, Steve Craig, Clayton M. Steinman, 1999 Documentary Film in the Public Sphere James D. Schneider, 1999 Gilles Deleuze's Structuralist Cinema-World Roger Dawkins, 2025-12-11 This book is an explanation of Deleuze's cinema books that fleshes out a structuralist method applicable to film and media today Gilles Deleuze's Structuralist Cinema World outlines a way of analyzing the meaning we interpret from film its images sounds and their combinations and in so doing makes space for Deleuze's vision of critical resistance and creative thinking It argues that this method is Deleuze's radical version of Structuralism as Deleuze borrows elements of Structuralism and deploys them throughout his entire oeuvre This book distills this Deleuzian Structuralism down to a practical system of four criteria of analysis including a special structuralist element called the joker Its analysis of film serves to explicate Deleuze's Structuralism and realize the experimentation potential to Deleuze's method This book investigates this perspective of Structuralism in Deleuze's philosophy his cinema books and cinema generally In so doing it develops the system of analysis described above it offers a novel reading of cinematic examples in line with this system while at the same time outlining a method of analysis easily translatable to film and media studies more broadly and in its final chapter it makes inroads into the application of this system beyond cinema to image based platform media today It includes detailed analyses of more than 10 films from current well known cinema Top Gun Maverick Mr Bean's Holiday to Australian Indigenous cinema Ten Canoes and including less recent independent films such as What Time is it There The Cinematic Text R. Barton Palmer, 1989 This third volume in the excellent series Georgia State Literary Studies is edited by an associate professor of English at Georgia State University in Atlanta As Palmer correctly points out in his introduction the major concerns of film theory have evolved from the narrative and linguist approaches of literary theory and the book presents a range of critical methodologies including deconstruction feminist criticism and semiotics The first section of the book presents a series of essays that use various theoretical models in analyzing specific films and filmmakers The second section delves into the larger issues of modern film theory and includes two extended articles on the translinguistics of the Russian theoretician Mikhail Bakhtin Perhaps the most impressive piece in the text is the penultimate essay by David Bordwell a sweeping reevaluation of the field
