Institutional Learning and Knowledge Transfer Across Epistemic Communities Elias G. Carayannis, Ali Pirzadeh, Denisa Popescu, 2011-11-25 Over the past several decades as the pace of globalization has accelerated operational issues of international coordination have often been overlooked For example the global financial crisis that began in 2007 is attributed in part to a lack of regulatory oversight As a result supranational organizations such as the G 20 the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund have prioritized strengthening of the international financial architecture and providing opportunities for dialogue on national policies international co operation and international financial institutions Prevailing characteristics of the global economic systems such as the increasing power of financial institutions changes in the structure of global production decline in the authority of nation states over their national economy and creation of global institutional setting e g global governance have created the conditions for a naturally evolving process towards enabling national epistemic communities to create institutions that comply with global rules and regulations can control crises In this context transfer of technical knowledge from the larger organizations and its global epistemic communities to member communities is becoming a policy tool to convince participants in the international system to have similar ideas about which rules will govern their mutual participation In the realm of finance and banking regulation the primary focus is on transfer of specialized and procedural knowledge in technical domains such as accounting procedures payment systems and corporate governance principles thereby promoting institutional learning at national and local levels In this volume the authors provide in depth analysis of initiatives to demonstrate how this type of knowledge generated at the international organization level is codified into global standards and disseminated to members particularly in the developing world where the legal and regulatory infrastructure is often lacking They argue that despite the challenges when a country intends to join the global system its institutions and economic structures need to move toward the global norms In so doing they shed new light on the dynamics of knowledge transfer financial regulation economic development with particular respect to supporting global standards and avoiding future crises □□□□□□,2006 Industrial Organization Don E. chapters and topics have been added the handbook still follows the systematic and structured approach of the first edition Each contributor all of them practitioners experienced with blockchain projects within their respective areas of expertise and specific jurisdictions elucidates the implications of blockchain technology and related legal issues under such headings as the following understanding blockchain from a technological point of view regulatory aspects of blockchain smart contracts data privacy capital markets crypto asset regulation in Europe the UK and the US intellectual property and antitrust law The foundational chapter on the technical aspects of blockchain technology has been meticulously expanded to elucidate the proof of stake consensus mechanism alongside fresh insights into the ERC 721 Token Standard for non fungible tokens decentralized exchanges staking stablecoins and central bank digital currencies As blockchain law cements itself as a distinct legal field this new edition is poised to be an invaluable asset for legal practitioners in house lawyers IT professionals consultancy firms blockchain associations and legal scholars At a depth that allows non IT experts to understand the groundwork for legal assessments the handbook provides those charting the dynamic waters of this field of law with a compass ensuring they are well equipped to tackle the legal issues raised by the usage of blockchain technology

Discrimination, Vulnerable Consumers and Financial Inclusion Cătălin-Gabriel Stănescu, Asress Adimi Gikay, 2020-12-28 This book addresses the questions of discrimination vulnerable consumers and financial inclusion in the light of the emerging legal socioeconomic and technological challenges New technologies such as artificial intelligence driven consumer credit risk assessment and Fintech platforms the changing nature of vulnerability due to the ongoing COVID 19 pandemic as well as the sophistication of digital technologies which help circumvent legal barriers and protections necessitate the continuous study of the existing legal frameworks and measures that are capable of tackling these challenges Organized in two major parts the first addresses from multiple national angles the idea of a human rights approach to consumer law in order to replace the mantra of economic efficiency that characterizes financial services with those of human dignity and freedom from discrimination and from debt induced servitude The second tackles the challenges posed by increased usage of technology in connection with financial services which tends to solve but also creates additional issues for consumers in general and for vulnerable groups in particular
