strikes the firing pin which, in turn, fires the round in the pistol firing. The round is ejected out of the magazine. During the forward movement, the slide then rotates, picks up a cartridge from the magazine, ready to be fired. If there is not a round in the magazine, the ambidextrous slide will open.

When the slide is closed, the pistol will fire a single round. If the magazine and the chamber are empty, the slide will remain open after the last round is fired.

The first shot will be double-action (Figure 3). If, after firing a double-action shot, the slide is closed by the left or right ambidextrous slide stop, the next shot will be single-action (Figure 4).
