Food Security and Development Udaya Sekhar Nagothu, 2014-11-13 The global food system is characterized by large numbers of people experiencing food insecurity and hunger on the one hand and vast amounts of food waste and overconsumption on the other. This book brings together experiences from different countries addressing the challenges associated with food security. Seen through various disciplinary lenses, the different cases included are countries at various stages of food security with diverse stories of success as well as failures in their efforts. China, Brazil, and India, as well as less developed countries in Africa and Asia such as Malawi, Ethiopia, Tanzania, Myanmar, Bangladesh, and the Philippines. The authors pay special attention to the environmental and socio-economic challenges in the respective chapters and how they contribute to food insecurity. Each of the case studies identifies and analyzes which factors or drivers environmental, economic, policy, technology, markets have been the most powerful shapers of the food system and their future impact. The case studies identify interventions at regional, national, and local level that contribute positively to food security, highlighting solutions that are effective and easy to implement for all levels of decision makers from farmers to policy makers. Overall, the book provides insights in order to foster a greater understanding of the issues surrounding food security and support progress towards the goal of a sustainable food system for all.

Global Food Security and Development Aid Ivica Petrikova, 2016-11-03 At the global level, international actors have repeatedly expressed their desire to end hunger and food insecurity. However, food insecurity has persisted. More analysis is hence needed on the link between continuously high levels of global food insecurity and the ever-increasing flow of development aid. Global Food Security and Development Aid investigates the impact that development aid has had on food security in developing countries.

and includes international case studies on Peru Ethiopia India and Vietnam It examines the effect of development aid in general and the impact of aid divided into different categories based on donor mechanism and sector to which it is provided In each examined relationship between aid and food security particular attention is paid to the potentially intervening role played by the quality of national and or local governance The book makes policy recommendations most importantly that donors should take greater care in considering which types of aid are suitable to which specific countries localities and development goals and account for expected developments in the complex relationship between aid food security and governance This book will be of considerable interest to students researchers and policy makers in the areas of development aid and food security     Trade Reforms and Food Security Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2006-01-01 The links between trade related policy reforms and food security is of key concern to many developing countries This publication sets out the findings of 15 country case studies from Cameroon Chile China Ghana Guatemala Guyana India Kenya Malawi Morocco Nigeria Peru Senegal Tanzania and Uganda The coverage includes countries at different stages of development with the main focus on low income countries that are likely to be at greater risk of food insecurity The studies examine the impact of trade related policy reforms on agricultural prices production and trade and the consequences for food security issues for each country     Food Security in Asian Countries in the Context of Millennium Goals V.
