Globalisation, Governance and Human Rights: South Asian Experiences Anisur Rahman, Niharika

Tiwari, 2022-01-01 With increasing geo strategic importance in contemporary scenario the South Asia can be accorded as a region of special relevance in context of globalization and international politics The present book delves deep into the pros and cons of inter linkages between globalization governance and issues of human rights in South Asia The book discusses an array of issues relating to globalization governance and issues of human rights The micro level issues are discussed in a way that it will give an insight to develop a framework and better understanding at macro level In this book readers will find the debate between proponents and critics of globalization in detail to comprehend the context in toto The governance and its connection with globalization is also dealt with accordingly The issue of human rights in the globalized world needs to be given proper attention so as to understand all indispensable aspects to have a complete understanding of South Asia in a globalized world The book throws light on issues and challenges like conflicts human rights issues poor governance gender imbalance poverty and unemployment This will certainly help readers to understand the South Asia through post development perspective It will also be helpful for scholars general readers and policy makers in understanding and developing their own perspectives and formulating policy on South Asia in contemporary globalized scenario Key Texts for Latin American Sociology Fernanda Beigel, 2019-09-23 Key Texts for Latin American Sociology is the first book to curate and translate into English key texts from the Latin American Sociological canon By bringing together texts from leading sociologists in Argentina Brazil Peru Chile Costa Rica Mexico Bolivia and Uruguay the book provides comprehensive coverage of a wide range of issues in Latin American Sociology drawing attention to embedded issues such as inequalities identities development oppression and representation This volume is the result of five years of collaboration between colleagues from 15 Latin American Countries coordinated by Fernanda Beigel CONICET UNCuyo Mendoza Argentina with the collaboration of the Key Texts Scientific Committee the Committee consists of the following members Nadya Araujo Guimaraes PPGS USP Brazil Manuel Antonio Garret n Universidad de Chile Raquel Sosa Elizaga CELA UNAM Mexico Jorge Rovira Mas Universidad de Costa Rica Breno Bringel IESP UERJ Brazil Joao Ehlert Maia FGV Brazil Hebe Vessuri IVIC Venezuela Andr Bothelo UFRJ Brazil Carlos Ruiz Encina Universidad de Chile Eloisa Martin UFRJ Brazil Sergio Miceli PPGS USP Brazil Alejandro Moreano UCE Ecuador Elizabeth Jelin CONICET IDES Argentina Patricia Funes UBA CONICET Argentina Claudio Pinheiro FGV Brazil Pablo de Marinis UBA CONICET Argentina Diego Pereyra UBA CONICET Argentina Jos Gandarilla Salgado CIICH UNAM Mexico Juan Piovani UNLP CONICET Argentina Globalization and Law Adam

Gearey, 2005-07-07 Globalized law brings together disparate strands of study including international political economy human rights law and the law of war Globalization and Law examines international institutions including the WTO the World Bank and the IMF and shows how they are linked to the politics of world markets and the politics of war The book looks at these interactions at the micro level where globalized law can be seen in action from the politics of oil and human rights in Nigeria to the current war in Iraq and the claim of a just war fought for human rights Looking at the fate of people worldwide in the context of trends in economic development the exploitation of human rights regimes and supposedly humanitarian interventions we see that many are unhomed by the forces of globalization Whose humanity lies behind the claims to human rights Whose interests are best served by the market Can we ever go home again About Arturo Escobar:

"Encountering Development" Ronny Röwert, 2011-11-24 Literature Review from the year 2011 in the subject Politics Topic Development Politics grade 1 7 University of Auckland Centre for Development Studies course Contemporary Theories of International Development language English abstract The field of development studies has seen an endless coming and going of various new paradigms in the latter half of the 20th century They all claimed to be highly innovative stirring hope that after all the dissatisfactory experiences prior to their emergence the big problems of developing countries can finally be solved A vast body of major theory on development emerged since the 1940s such as Modernisation theory Dependency theory World Systems theory and Neoliberalism with its structural adjustment programmes Chant McIlwaine 2009 In the early to mid 1990s an outraged collection of texts highly critical of all those conventional development approaches emerged In contrast to former controversies these writings were novel in the way that they casted a serious doubt not only on the feasibility but on the very desirability of development itself Escobar 2000 p 11 making use of newly revised poststructuralist and discursive approaches This way of criticism became known as post development According to McGregor 2009 p 2 the most influential and widely read text however was Escobar's 1995 Encountering Development The Making and Unmaking of the Third World This article aims to review this book and is divided into three parts The first section provides a brief summary of the text followed by an analysis dealing with major potential contradictions and their relative insignificance closing with the final part by highlighting the huge and unique impact the book had in the field of development studies and especially in the branch of post development theory Human Rights in a Posthuman World Upendra Baxi, 2007 This important new work reflects on the contemporary human condition in a posthuman and machinistic world almost overwhelmed by security concerns terror and its politics and technoscience Exploring the role of human rights and development in such a world Baxi contends that any serious analysis of human rights theory and practice must confront two critical realities Firstly that the new world economic and military orders along with the continuing wars of and on terror adversely impact global social and human development policies and programmes Secondly that emergent technologies especially artificial intelligence biotechnologies and nano technologies generating the discourse of the posthuman have serious implications for human rights The book presents a critique of the approaches towards a theory of human rights proposed by Amartya Sen and his emphasis on the ethical as opposed to the juridical nature of such rights It proceeds to examine the complexities and contradictions of the ideology of development and asks why there has been so little progress with regard to the right to development It explores how in the current world scenario the emancipatory potential of human rights may be carried forward in theoretical work and through activism Anthropology, Development and the Post-Modern Challenge Katy Gardner,David Lewis,1996-05-20 A well crafted sensitive reflective and constructive book It is highly recommended Development Policy Review The Conceptualizing of a Just Freedom Shermit Lamba,2000

Nature's Revenge Josée Johnston,Michael Anthony Gismondi,James Goodman,2006-02 An indispensable and timely collection which confronts the core questions at the multi scale intersections of political ecology and political economy today Roger Keil York University The End of Development? Trevor Parfitt,2002-03-20 Parfitt politics American U in Cairo summarizes the contesting ideas in development studies and new social developments ideas Drawing on postmodern theory to illustrate how forms of development can be complementary to emancipatory social movements and projects he presents a model which incorporates the needs of peoples both North and South arguing against the post development school s call for the end of development and in favor of solving problems within the context of a pro development approach Distributed by Stylus Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Forum for Development Studies ,1997 Colloqui ,1997 Frontiers ,1997 A journal of women studies The Paternalism of Partnership Maria Eriksson Baaz,2005-03-21 Publisher Description

Critical Development Theory Ronaldo Munck,Denis O'Hearn,1999-03 In the late 20th century there has been a rethinking of the whole concept of development including a growing awareness of its gender cultural and environmental dimensions and the impact of globalization The contributors to this volume seek to extend these debates to a more fundamental level tackling such issues as the crisis of development as an intellectual and practical project the need for a break with development as a Eurocentric concept and the viability of alternative non Western forms of development The contributors aim to transcend critiques of development which simply engage in a blanket dismissal of the whole enterprise and instead offer ways of re engaging with reality that despite globalization is still a dimension of the late 20th century

International Social Science Journal ,2009 The Politics of Gender, Ethnicity and "development" Dorothy Louise Hodgson,1995 A critical look on our perception of development by understanding Arturo Escobar's literature Konstantin Dyck,2013-05-14 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2013 im Fachbereich Ethnologie Volkskunde Note 1 7 Ruprecht Karls Universität Heidelberg Institut für Ethnologie Veranstaltung Anthropology and Development Sprache Deutsch Abstract Once I started to reflect the course Anthropology and Development it was quite sure that I would choose one critical and mind opening article as a base for my work The works of Arturo Escobar a Columbian anthropologist came into my head I really appreciated his interdisciplinary methods During our class his concepts were the one that polarized the most and lead to vivid discussions He took discursive analysis out off sociology and philosophy and completed a very sophisticated breakdown of our most essential perception of what we called development His ideas covered enormous fields starting from malnutrition up to women rights Most points about development I took before my readings for granted and never scrutinized it Similar to debunking the term Orient in Edward Said's work Orientalism Escobar questions our notion of development and calls it a product of the western world Going through lots of his texts Arturo Escobar reveals his points with a clear language and made it a good read for me What he really emphasizes repeatedly is that the uses of terms like Third World underdeveloped and poor have to be reconsidered on a big scale It is not about criticizing one point after the other It is a highly challenging work for every reader to leave so much concepts behind which were naturally built in our language and thoughts His major work Encountering Development: The Making and Unmaking of the Third World summarizes plenty of his earlier works published in magazines like Development or Future in the 1990s Although sometimes reviewed as too much based on generalizations it is interesting how my view on lots of political economical and cultural topics was not only changed but also completely flipped inside out Even if you do not agree with Arturo Escobar on every point or fail to follow on his side trips into other topics there remains at least a small impact in your perceptions of your surroundings whether it is to a positive or a not so good direction I definitely see so much potential in Escobar's work not only for anthropology and development itself but also most notably for presenting the discursive methods on a broader scale Much of his presented improvements or alternatives are already working today for several regional and international campaign and organizations It is fascinating how his ideas never lost any topicality until now

Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1995-02 Emergent Publics Ian H. Angus, 2001 Critical thinker Ian Angus argues for a radical redefinition of democracy He wrests the concept of democracy away from the notion that a citizen's only real activity is voting and argues for a real participatory model This short and accessible book looks at the roots of democratic institutions showing how they originated in social movements and the forms of communication and interaction within those movements
