Exploring Turkish Landscapes Crossing Inner Boundaries:

Exploring Turkish Landscapes Lisa Morrow, 2014-04-15 The first time Lisa Morrow went to Turkey she was just one of many young people on the great pilgrimage to Europe and beyond The colourful sights sounds and smells of foreign countries appeal to their need for adventure and excitement When the enterprise becomes too trying there is always the safety of a return ticket to fall back on After a given period of time they re expected to return a little older and a lot wiser While some go for a year others never make it back At first Lisa only travelled across the vast expanses of Turkey as a visitor but then she began to stay for longer and longer periods of time Her initial glimpses of a culture less western than eastern were replaced by an awareness that Turkey is at times both and yet something more These experiences became a metaphor for an inner journey from the known to the unknown and back The uncompromising nature of Turkish culture and society meant she had to accept what she saw without changing it In so doing she started to question who she was and look for an alternative way of being Exploring Turkish Landscapes builds on Lisa Morrow s first collection of stories Inside Out In Istanbul This latest collection offers a much more personal insight into Turkish traditions and beliefs and also takes us on an emotional journey as one woman rediscovers herself

Inside Out in Istanbul Lisa Morrow, 2013-01-24 Planning to travel to Istanbul and want to know what adventures will await you Already been and want to know more Inside Out In Istanbul is a collection of short stories about life in Istanbul by author Lisa Morrow Lisa first went to Turkey in 1990 where she stayed in the small village of G reme for three months during the Gulf War Since that time she has travelled back and forth between Turkey and Australia many times living and working in Istanbul and Kayseri in central Turkey before finally settling for good in Istanbul The stories in this collection take you beyond the world famous sights of Istanbul to the shores of Asia to an Istanbul that is vibrantly alive with the sounds of street vendors wedding parties weekly markets and more Come behind the tourist fa ades and venture deep into this sometimes chaotic often schizophrenic but always charming city

Waiting for the Tulips to Bloom Lisa Morrow, 2015-09-22 When the dream of living in a foreign country is rudely shattered by gritty reality there are two choices Turn tail and run or bravely face what life throws at you Welcome to a roller coaster ride through the unpredictability of life in Turkey while struggling with the demands of home and away After repeated visits to Turkey the first during the Gulf War Lisa Morrow left Australia in 2010 with her partner Kim to settle in Istanbul Having travelled extensively throughout the country as well as already having lived in both Istanbul and Central Turkey for a few years she was sure the transition would be simple However while Turkish culture seems easy to understand you only have to scratch away the surface and the complexities can be overwhelming When they arrived in Istanbul Lisa was still trying to overcome the effects of her mother s death and struggled to know who she was Her feelings of uncertainty were exacerbated by having to deal with Turkish real estate agents bureaucracy and cultural difference as well as friendships with Turks who seemed the same as her but were in fact very different The stress of getting settled was only just starting to abate when she had to rush

Kim to hospital and then received bad news from home Waiting for the Tulips to Bloom Adrift in Istanbul is an honest and engaging account of life in Istanbul written by an expat who uses her training in sociology to take the reader right into the heart of Turkish culture The Spectator ,1914 A weekly review of politics literature theology and art
