Relations and Roles in China's Internationalism Chih-yu Shih, 2024-08-01

Pluriversalism within International Relations and the literature on Chinese international relations each embrace ideas of relation and difference While they similarly strive for recognition by Western academics they do not seriously engage with each other To the extent that either succeeds in winning recognition it ironically reproduces Western centrism and the binary of the Western versus the non Western In Relations and Roles in China's Internationalism author Chih-yu Shih demonstrates through a critical translation exercise that Confucian themes enable both the critique and realignment of liberal thought allowing all of us including the members of Confucianism and the neo liberal order to understand how we adapt to and coexist with each another In the end Confucianism not only informs the pluriversal necessity that all are bound to be related but also de-nationalizes China's internationalism

University of Melbourne, 1929     International Relations Theory and South Asia (OIP) E. Sridharan, 2014-11-13 Bringing together scholarship from several South Asian countries this volume understands conflict resolution and cooperation building in the region The essays cover three inter related issues security political economy domestic politics and the construction of identities and normative frameworks They employ broader social science theorizing particularly in relation to political economy to go beyond conceptualizations based on international relations theory The volume takes a fresh look at the inter relationships between issues and their analyses and eschews stand alone topics such as Kashmir nuclear policies or regional cooperation Combining theory with fieldwork it provides diverse perspectives and arguments for a more nuanced picture of international relations in South Asia     The United States Catalog ,1921
