East Asia Decentralizes Making Local Government Work:

East Asia Decentralizes ,2005-01-01 This report states that the future of East Asian countries depends on the capacity and performance of local and provincial governments Decentralization has unleashed local initiative and energy with new ways to deliver services to people with potential for continued improvement The report which focuses on six countries notes the differences in the approach to decentralizing government in Cambodia China Indonesia the Philippines Thailand and Vietnam East Asia Decentralizes ,2005 East Asia Decentralizes is the first attempt to look systematically at the decentralization phenomenon that is occurring throughout East Asia It assesses what has happened thus far distills key messages highlights positive experiences and identifies areas where priority action is needed Although intended primarily for central and local government policy makers East Asia Decentralizes will also be a useful resource for academics businesspeople and development practitioners concerned with the unfolding process of intergovernmental reform in the region R sum de l diteur Central and Local Government Relations in Asia Naoyuki Yoshino,Peter J. Morgan,2017

Sustainable and inclusive growth in emerging Asian economies requires high levels of public investment in areas such as infrastructure education health and social services The increasing complexity and regional diversity of these investment needs together with the trend of democratization has led to fiscal decentralization being implemented in many Asian economies This book takes stock of some major issues regarding fiscal decentralization including expenditure and revenue assignments transfer programs and sustainability of local government finances and develops important findings and policy recommendations Decentralization, Local Governance, and Localizing the Sustainable Development Goals in Asia and the Pacific Bruno Carrasco,Hanif A. Rahemtulla,Rainer Rohdewohld,2022-10-12

Since its adoption in 2015 the 2030 Agenda on Sustainable Development has shaped not only international development cooperation but also the design of national trajectories for social and economic development In tandem with other global agendas adopted that year such as the Paris Agreement on Climate Change and UN Habitat s New Urban Agenda it remains the global and regional blueprint for sustainable development despite the COVID 19 pandemic The term localizing the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs has been used to capture the importance of subnational governments for achieving national SDG agendas However there is little deeper analysis of the required nexus between fiscal political and legal arrangements for SNGs their involvement in national policy arenas which discuss and decide on national SDG strategies and the need for locally disaggregated data systems on the one hand and effective SDG localization strategies on the other hand It is this aspect which the present publication explores in greater detail by using country examples and conceptual analyses The text will be of interest to policymakers scholars students and practitioners in public policy and public administration decentralization and sustainable development with a focus on the Asia and Pacific region The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivative License CC BY NC ND 3 0 IGO

Basic Services for All in an Urbanizing World United Cities and Local Governments, 2014-07-25 UCLG's Third Global Report on Local Democracy and Decentralization GOLD III examines basic service provision and the current state of play of the local governance of basic services around the world. Basic Services for All in an Urbanizing World examines the enormous challenge of ensuring the universal provision of basic services in a world that is being shaped by rapid global urbanization, climate change and economic, social and technological transformation. The world's urban population is predicted to reach 5 billion people within the next 20-30 years. The report analyses the conditions necessary for local governments to provide these new urban residents with quality basic services. Water, sanitation, waste management, transport and energy are essential not only for the preservation of human life and dignity but also in driving economic growth and ensuring social equality. Each chapter examines a world region, drawing on existing research and consultation with local authorities on the ground. The chapters review access levels, legal and institutional frameworks and the different ways in which basic services are managed and financed, as well as showcasing diverse examples of innovation in the local and multi-level governance of services. It concludes with a set of recommendations for all stakeholders with a view to making the goal of basic services for all a reality. This report contributes to discussions on the Millennium Development Goals and the UN Post 2015 Development Agenda. The findings of GOLD III will also be essential to promoting the vision of local governments at the 2016 UN Conference on Human Settlements Habitat III.

Politics in Pacific Asia Xiaoming Huang, Jason Young, 2017-09-16 This lively and accessible new edition provides a uniquely broad-ranging introduction to the governance and politics of Pacific Asia. Thematically structured around the key institutions and issues, it is genuinely comparative in its approach to the whole region. A range of representative countries—China, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, Indonesia, Vietnam and the Philippines—are used as key case examples throughout and each of them is subject to a detailed full-page country profile. This diverse region is a fascinating area for study. Politics in Pacific Asia provides a framework to form a coherent understanding of the region's politics; it balances persistent patterns with the latest developments and general characteristics with the differing cultures, histories and institutions of individual countries.

Governance Reform Brian Levy, 2007-01-01 Developing country governance and its monitoring have risen to the top of the development agenda. This mounting interest is in response to compelling evidence that links governance to development performance: policy quality, public service provision, the investment climate and the extent of corruption. Governance Reform: Bridging Monitoring and Action lays out a broad framework for analyzing and monitoring governance in developing countries. It identifies fourteen core indicators for governance monitoring, both broad measures of overall patterns and specific actionable measures that can be used to guide reforms and track progress. The book also summarizes good practices for reforming public bureaucracies and checks and balances institutions, including parliaments, the justice system, media and information, and local governance. It highlights improvements in transparency as a relatively low-cost and low-key way of deepening government accountability to civil society and suggests ways to complement top down reforms with approaches that focus directly on improving service provision and the investment climate such as strengthening the bottom up accountabilities of service providers to communities firms and citizens Governance Reform has no universally applicable trajectory of change Rather the aims are to find country specific entry points for reform which have development impact in the short term to address binding public management constraints and to help build momentum for further change

China Urbanizes Shahid Yusuf,Anthony Saich,2008-01-22 The key challenges facing China in the next two decades derive from the ongoing process of urbanization China s urbanization rate in 2005 was about 43% Over the next 10 15 years it is expected to rise to well over 50% adding an additional 200 million mainly rural migrants to the current urban population of 560 million How China copes with such a large migration flow will strongly influence rural urban inequality the pace at which urban centers expand their economic performance and the urban environment The growing population will necessitate a big push strategy to maintain a high rate of investment in housing and the urban physical infrastructure and urban services To finance such expansion will require a significant strengthening and diversification of China s financial system Growing cities will greatly increase consumption of energy and water Containing this without at the same time constraining the economic performance of cities or the improvement in the standards of living will call for enlightened policies strategies careful urban planning and significant technological advances This volume identifies the key developments to watch and discusses the policies which would affect the course as well as the fruitfulness of change

Urban Governance in Southeast Asia Ambe J. Njoh,2024-07-30 The book draws from regulation theory to explain urban planning policies and outcomes in Southeast Asia as a function of governance structures and processes A considerable portion of the book is spent re tracing the historical roots of planning dispositives including the totality of institutional entities which together constitute an apparatus of government in South East Asian polities Therefore of essence in the book are the institutional structures and administrative principles that were introduced by colonial authorities and inherited by their post colonial successors in South East Asia The book seeks to demonstrate the role of the policies and commensurate implementation institutional frameworks in accounting for important dynamics in the contemporary urban domain in the region In analyzing the institutional framework for urban planning and governance the book is doing due diligence to a hitherto neglected subject namely governmentality in the discourse on the political economy of urban management in Southeast Asia Thus the book is intended to acknowledge the importance of institutions in determining the success of urban development policies The notion of institutions or governmentality as will be used in the book includes de facto governance structures government and parastatal agencies and the formal rules and regulations they are charged with implementing The book is based on the premise that knowledge of institutions and their functions is critical in explaining phenomena in economic geography This is particularly true in Southeast Asian countries because of the dominant and overarching role of the state or government agencies in the economy
